JACK ANDERSON SAYS: Governor let PR take priority over rescues; used 3 of 5 rescue choppers to put on show; FBI, defense keep tabs on illegitimate kids

FIRE leveled the home of Gary Rodgers at 11 p.m. Tuesday in Salcedo. The only building saved was a chicken coop in the rear. The fire appeared to have started in the rear of the house.

McGovern Sweeps Four Democratic Primaries

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Sen. George McGovern captured the crucial California primary today to cap a four- primary sweep that takes him a long way toward winning the Democratic presidential nomination.

Though the race turned out to be closer than expected, the South Dakota senator won a clear victory over Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey in their battle for California's 271 delegates to the Democratic National Convention.

Along with victories in New Jersey, New Mexico and his native South Dakota, the triumph vaulted McGovern's delegate total past the 900 mark in his drive to reach the 1,509 needed to capture his party's presidential nomination.

Humphrey, however, appeared to have done well enough in California to stay in the race and encourage those Democratic party leaders and labor chieftains who have been cool to the McGovern candidaacy.

Even before it became clear that Humphrey's margin in populous Los Angeles County would be insufficient to overcome the hefty McGovern majorities in the northern part of the state and in San Diego, McGovern was claiming victory and saying it means he'll win the Democratic nomination.

With over half of the vote counted, McGovern had 47 per cent, Humphrey had 38 percent.

Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace, a write- in entry, ran third with 5 per cent, but his true total was unlikely to be known for several days. Six other candidates split the remaining ballots.

Before the California outcome was settled, McGovern had won the day's three other primaries.

He captured a solid majority of the 109 New Jersey delegates, swept the 17 of his native South Dakota without opposition and took New Mexico's first presidential primary in a tight race with Wallace that gave each nine delegates.

California, however, was the key place. Both McGovern and Humphrey had predicted the winner would capture the presidential nomination though Humphrey modified that in recent days as polls showed him far behind in the state.

The California vote count was delayed when a federal judge in San Francisco ordered polls kept open an extra three hours to handle delays caused by an unusually long local ballot. Secretary of State Edmund G. Brown Jr. then ordered the statewide tally held up until San Francisco polls closed.

A few votes were counted before Brown's order was received, mainly in the north where McGovern was running well, and then the tally stood still for more than two hours, until after 2 a.m. EDT.

As the tally started to mount, McGovern told reporters, "I realize there's nothing certain in politics, but I think these four victories probably set the stage for my victory in Miami Beach."

He said he planned to talk with Humphrey in the next few days, adding, "He and I know how to talk to each other on a man-to-man basis. We have a high regard for each other and I think something can be worked out."

U.S. Planes Strike 25 Miles From China

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. Air Force Jets wrecked a big North Vietnamese railroad marshalling yard and highway bridge less than 25 miles from the Chinese border, military spokesmen reported today.

The raid Tuesday was the closest to North Vietnam's northern frontier since the fullscale bombing campaign was resumed on April 6.

The bridge 10 miles southwest of Lang Son was knocked out with "smart" bombs guided to the target by laser light rays, the spokesmen said.

Another flight of Air Force Phantoms dropping laser bombs attacked the Bag Giang power plant 25 miles northeast of Hanoi for the second time in a week. The raid June 1 damaged the plant and its support buildings, spokesmen said, while the strikes Tuesday scored direct hits on the generator buildings and plant. But cloud cover prevented determination of the extent of damage, the spokesmen said.

The U.S. Command said U.S. pilots flew more than 270 strikes across North Vietnam Tuesday and destroyed or damaged five other bridges and 61 supply water craft.

Pilots from the carrier Saratoga reported destroying the east span of the Yen Lap railroad bridge 29 miles southeast of Hanoi and said they set fire to the Tieu Giao petroleum storage area 30 miles southeast of the North Vietnamese capital.

In South Vietnam, meanwhile, North Vietnamese forces made a series of attacks northwest of Saigon.

Troops of the North Vietnamese 7th Division attacked four South Vietnamese militia posts defending the district towns of Chu Chi, Trang Bang and Khiem Hanh on the Saigon River corridor, a key infiltration route. The attacks Tuesday were at points 25 to 40 miles northwest of Saigon.

Field reports said 42 North Vietnamese troops and seven militiamen were killed, and 67 South Vietnamese were wounded.

Field reports said 82 North Vietnamese and 12 South Vietnamese were killed and 91 government troops were wounded.

Fire Destroys Home

The fire was discovered about 11 p.m. in the kitchen by Rodgers who had gotten out of bed to get a bottle for his one- year- old daughter. Rodgers was able to get his wife and child and two visiting relatives out of the house before it was destroyed.

All the family managed to save were a chair, a television set and some articles of clothing.

Friends of the family announced this morning that they are seeking donations of used clothing, eating utensils, etc. to help the family get back on its feet. Donations may be made by contacting either Mildred Anditon, 471-7651, or Mrs. Rodgers at 471-8191.

A fireman with the Sikeston Fire Department said there wasn't much his unit could do to save the house. He said the home was over half- burned when the truck arrived.

He added there was no place to pump water from so firemen were forced to fall back upon the 500 gallons of water carried in the fire truck. That water was used to wet down a liquefied gas tank in front of the house to keep it from exploding.

The fire department was called out two other times yesterday. At 2:55 p.m. a barrel, still hot from burning refuse, set fire to a garbage truck in the senior high school parking lot. Damage was minor, according to firemen. The truck was owned by Paul Talbert, 204 William.

At 2:57 p.m. a carburetor backfire set fire to a pickup truck at 117 South Handy St. Only minor damage was done. The truck is owned by Henry Newman of 318 East Gladys.

Patterson Withdraws

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — Sen. J. F. Patterson, D-Caruthersville, has withdrawn as a candidate in the new 25th Senatorial District of extreme southeastern Missouri and thrown his support to Sen. Nelson B. Tinnin, D-Hornersville.

The only other candidate is Mayor Randell E. Ramsey of Parma, brother of New Madrid County Sheriff W. L. Ramsey Jr. Ramsey has the support of Gov. Warren E. Hearnes' political ally, Hal E. Hunter of New Madrid.

The winner of the Democratic nomination is assured of election since there are no Republican candidates.

Patterson, who will be 65 in September, is president pro tem of the Senate and for 10 years served as chairman of the powerful Senate Appropriations Committee, where he preached fiscal responsibility to his colleagues and urged them not to spend more than existing revenue.

He has also served as chairman of the Budget Control Committee, which must act on all bills calling for expenditure of $50,000 or more in new appropriations.

Patterson is in the construction business at Sikeston with his son and said the business is taking more and more of his time.

At one time he and the governor cooperated closely but in recent years they have differed on budgetary and political matters.

Patterson said he would remain active in politics and also would support Rep. Vic Downing, D-Bragg City, for re-election. He said he would endorse other candidates later and work for them.

Chief Discusses Drug Problems

Arthur Bruce, chief of the Sikeston police department, spoke to the Kiwanis Club Tuesday night at the Ramada Inn about drug problems.

The Chief told the club that when school officials become suspicious they immediately call the police department and an investigation is made. The department also tries to track down all reports of drugs they receive.

Bruce introduced Lt. Leonard Campbell. who has attended a school on narcotics and lectures on drugs two to three times a week.

Campbell told of the many types of drugs and passed samples for the members to inspect.

He has several displays on drugs, donated by drug stores, and a narcotics identification guide.

"In spite of the fine educational program the police department is conducting, the use of drugs is on the increase", Campbell said, "but we will continue to do our best to try to decrease their usage."

Guests were Kiwanis Lt. Governor Joe Watson of East Prairie and city manager Jim Huff.

According to the highway patrol, the driver of the car, Randell Gene Stephens, 26, of Farmington fell asleep at the wheel, lost control of the car and overturned twice.

Community JuCo Planned In Area

MALDEN — Tentative plans for a Bootheel junior college lean toward a community college tied in with the three trade schools in New Madrid, Kennett and Malden.

Working with a $10,000 grant from the Danforth Foundation, the Bootheel Regional Planning Commission will plan the types of courses to be offered and the best methods and means to form a college in the vicinity, Phil Shelton, executive director of BRPC said.

A plan which has been successful in other sections of the country is the "college without walls." The laboratory, library and administrative offices are available, but the college courses are taken to the people, rather than a centralized campus location.

Shelton said the tie- in with the trade schools would create a curriculum leaning toward a vocational education program. This would be for people who want to better themselves while still holding job.

Research is underway to determine how to establish the college without a property tax. Rather, advantage would be taken of federal monies which could be made available.

Organizational meetings to discuss plans for the college are tentatively set next month. Persons with suggestions or inquiries concerning the college plans may contact the Bootheel Regional Planning Commission office in Malden by phoning 271-2422.

CHARLESTON -- A preliminary hearing Tuesday for Leslie Allen Achter, charged with kidnaping, was continued to June 27 at the request of Achter due to failure to find witnesses and serve subpoenas.

Achter is accused of the May 18 kidnaping of Mrs. Mary Cooper of East Prairie. He remains in custody in lieu of $5,000 bond.

Frank Ware, charged with improper registration by failure to transfer and no operator's license, paid $10 fines on each charge plus $11 costs.

Judge T. J. Brown, Jr., dismissed a speeding charge at $5 costs to William K. Duncan.

Arrest Kidnap Suspect

EAST PRAIRIE — Edward Buddy Bonta, 26, of East Prairie was arrested today by Jefferson County Authorities after he allegedly kidnapped his former wife LaVerta on Sunday.

According to Mississippi County Authorities, the kidnaping took place in the small house where Mrs. Bonta lives behind the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Bill A. Zook, 401 Wilkinson.

Mrs. Bonta signed a complaint against her husband early Sunday because he would not leave her alone, authorities said. Between the time she left the station and arrived home, Bonta was arrested, charged and released on bond. Authorities say he then raced to his wife's home and was waiting inside when she arrived.

Mrs. Bonta claims he then forced her to the car at gun point and locked her in the trunk. He brought her back to town and released her after she told him her parents knew she was missing and he would be blamed if anything happened to her.

Conservationists From Six Counties Plan Tax Project

NEW MADRID — Conservationists from the six- county area of Scott, New Madrid, Pemiscot, Dunklin, Stoddard and Mississippi met Tuesday night to organize and coordinate support for the proposed soft drink tax earmarked for an expanded conservation program for Missouri.

A statewide campaign, spearheaded by the Citizens Committee for Conservation and the Conservation Federation of Missouri, to secure over 90,000 signatures necessary to put a constitutional amendment on the ballot was achieved in March.

A one- cent sales tax on soft drinks is proposed to finance the program. The proposed tax has been labeled discriminatory against youngsters and the soft drink industry.

Supporters of the program deny the charges and claim the proposed program is to serve and benefit all Missourians and should be supported by all Missourians. Conservationists claim Missouri's conservation and recreation program has been supported almost entirely by the state's hunters and fishermen.

The expanded conservation and recreation program calls for the purchase of 50,000 acres of forest and leasing of 300,000 acres. More than 30 small lakes and 10 large ones, many near urban centers, and 80 inside urban areas would be created.

Emphasis in the program is placed on preservation of unspoiled areas such as prairies, caves and springs for future generations and facilities for campers, boaters, birdwatchers and picnickers, as well as hunters and fishermen.

The program is designed to preserve Missouri's natural resources, especially wildlife resources, while providing adequate outdoor recreational opportunities for all Missourians.

Ed Stegner of Jefferson City, executive director of Conservation Federation of Missouri; Bob Bright of Jefferson City, coordinator for Citizens Committee for Conservation; Charles Davidson of Jefferson City, assistant executive director of Conservation Federation of Missouri; Hal E. Hunter Jr., 10th District coordinator of CCC; and L. V. Stevens, New Madrid county coordinator of CCC, were amont the 25 attending the meeting at New Madrid Country Club.

A HERO HAS HIS DAY

It was a pleasant Sunday afternoon when over 2,000 people gathered in the civic auditorium of Gadsden to observe their annual "Loyalty Day" celebration, as has been their custom for over 25 years. An important part of the ceremony was when Mayor Lesley L. Gilliland presented an embossed citation to a 14 year old youth of nearby Ashland. The citation read:

"Veterans of Foreign Wars of the United States; April 30, 1972. To Billy Joe Zackery: The true test of a man is his willingness to sacrifice for the good of others. He achieves nobility when he risks his own life to save that of another.

"In unhesitatingly plunging in the cold and dangerous waters of Black Creek on March 11, 1972, to rescue Kiflin Myrick, a stranger to you, you have demonstrated the highest type of courage. Your willingness to get involved at a time when you could not have been blamed for standing by is a great credit to you and to those responsible for instilling in you a realization of man's responsibility to mankind.

"On behalf of the Veterans of Foreign Wars of the United States, I commend you on your courage and resourcefulness in time of emergency. Your example can well serve as an inspiration to others.

"(sighed) Sincerely, Joseph L. Vicities, Commander-in-Chief"

And that was only one of several awards to young Zackery, as he was applauded by others honored on the same occasion: Gold Star mothers and fathers; men and women of the armed forces; former prisoners of war; families of men who have given their lives in Vietnam; many local and state officials of the VFW, and many other dignitaries.

But don't expect news of the event to be given wide circulation by those, both here and abroad, who hate America.

Billy Joe Zachery is black. The young lady he pulled from the savage current — after another brave youth tried, but lost his life in the attempt — is white. And Gadsden, where this typical American ceremony took place, is in a state for which liberals have never found a kind word — Alabama.

24 HOURS
AT LE MANS

The Grand Prix automobile race at Le Mans, France, is the grand-daddy of motor sports. First held in 1906 -- five years before the debut of the Indianapolis 500 -- the Le Mans race is a 24-hour endurance test that sometimes resembles a demolition derby. Only 13 of the 49 cars that started the 1971 event officially crossed the finish line. The winning Porsche was described by one of its drivers as follows: "The brakes are completely dead. The gearbox didn't wc properly and we had to double-clutch at every shift fc the last 10 hours." Even so, the vehicle set a new course record of 5,335.313 kilometers (3, 302.6 miles), a distance equivalent to a coast-to-coast sprint across the United States.

It goes without saying that motor vehicle racing is a highly hazarous sport for drivers and, occasionally, spectators. Accelerating to speeds well above 200 m.p.h., the driver confronts death at every hairpin turn; he lives with the knowledge that one loose screw in his car or one slick spot on a track can betray him instantly. Accordingly, the Grand Prix Drivers Association has put heavy pressure on race organizers to install safety railings on their tracks.

Racing buffs unable to go to France will have the opportunity to watch this year's Le Mans race on television. A group of Latin American entrepreneurs plans a live telecast June 10 and 11 for closed-circuit showings in the United States, Canada, Mexico, Japan, Australia, Brazil, Argentina, and Venezuela. Tickets may cost as much as $20. On a per-hour basis, $20 compares favorably with admission prices for baseball and football. Still, it seems risky to ask that much to see at second hand an event that is almost as much of an endurance test for the viewer as for the driver.

LITIGATION,
ANYONE?

Law seems to have taken the place of engineering as a "glamor" career.

Whether or not Ralph Nader and the rise of consumer and environmental advocacy have anything to do with it, the number of persons applying for entrance to law schools has been doubling every five years.

In 1960, 24,000 people nationwide took the Law School Admission Test (LSAT). It is predicted that 135,000 will take that test in 1972.

"This intense interest in legal education has puzzled a lot of people," says Angus S. McSwain Jr., dean of Baylor University's School of Law, which has room for 150 new students a year and already in 1972 has received 1,500 applications.

"I can't help but think this trend will peak out either this year or the next and things will return to normal."

Recently, the interior minister of the state of North Rhine-Wesphalia asked people to think of a new nick-name for policemen to replace the common but impolite "Bullen" (meaning "bulls").

The voters came up with two leading alternatives: "Polli" and "Bulli." Eventually, "Polli" was selected by a jury and a popular song will be launched to familiarize the population with the name.

SAFETY ADVICE
FOR BIKE RIDERS

With summer weather and also school being out, there will be more bicycle riders on the streets and byways, so only a stronger emphasis on traffic safety will help prevent bicycle deaths and bicycle - related accidents.

Last year, 850 bicycle riders died in traffic accidents in the United States. Another 39,000 bicyclists were injured in motor vehicle - related accidents, says the National Safety Council.

You can avoid being a bicycle - accident statistic by knowing and abiding by all safety rules.

Drive on the right side of the street, in the same direction as traffic. Obey all the traffic signs and signals, using both hands to guide the bicycle except when signaling the intention to stop or turn. Carry all books or packages in an attached basket or carrier.

Never "hitch a ride" from another vehicle. Always ride single file, keeping a safe distance from the vehicle ahead. Be aware of other vehicles entering intersections as well as parked car doors being opened in your path.

Only one person should ride a bike, unless it is a tandem model or an adult bike with a special baby seat.

On entering traffic, always stop to look for other vehicles and pedestrians, allowing them the right-of-way. Walk the bicycle across busy intersections and all railroad crossings. When you make a left turn at busy intersections, walk the bike across the two streets and enter traffic again on the right side.

Watch out for slippery surfaces such as sand, gravel, or dirt collected along curbs. They may cause wheels to slip when turning or stopping.

Equip your bike with a horn or bell that can be heard 100 feet away; a front light visible from 500 feet; and a red rear reflector visible from 300 feet.

Learn the various parts of your bicycle and check to make sure they are in good working order. Have brakes and gear systems repaired only by trained bicycle mechanics.

Every bicycle rider must be aware of the responsibilities in traffic -- and, hopefully, this knowledge will result in fewer accidents, deaths and injuries this summer.

HIGHER MINIMUM WAGES

The house now has passed a Republican-sponsored bill that would raise the minimum wage from the present $1.60 per hour to $1.80 this year and to $2 an hour next year for an essimated five million nonfarm workers.

The bill as passed was something less than what the Democrats had sought. The Democrats would bave brought maids and other domestic workers, employes of state and local governments and other groups under the shelter of minimum wages.They also would have required mandatory time-and a half wages for overtime for such workers and would have required that women working in executive, administrative, professional and outside sales jobs be paid the same wages as men holding such positions.

The GOP proposal still is open to challenge, for the Senate Labor and Public Welfare Committee now is drafting a bill similar to the one which was proposed by the House Democrats and it is reported to have a good chance of passage in the Senate. This presages a difficult fight in conference committee.

So higher wages appear almost certain, the only remaining question being how much higher the minimum will be.

An increase in the minimum is needed.The full $2 an hour increase next year still will only bring the annual income of affected workers just a shade above the upper limit of what the federal government considers the poverty level for an urban family of four.

It is difficult for anyone to argue that those who are receiving welfare should go to work if the wages they are to receive are below the poverty level.

But there can be negative effects of such an increase too. Some employers who have been keeping on marginally capable workers may be inclined to drop them if they have to pay higher wages. Others may seek ways to eliminate help by mechanization of some work. And the increases in minimums undoubtedly will result in demands for higher wages by those workers who now are earning just above the minimum.

However, those are problems which need to be approached by other means than wage floors. For many, the need is a stimulation of the overall economy, more job training opportunities and welfare reforms. This need also is evident in the reports on employment and unemployment which are issued each month in Washington. They show that opportunities and earnings of those who are qualified have been rising while the opportunities and earnings of the less qualified have been remaining static.

Representative John H. Dent (D-Pa.), who was the chief sponsor of the bill which the House rejected through a coalition of Republican and Southern Democratic votes, promises than in conference "we will write the kind of legislation that will provide the greatest good for the greatest number." Nobody can quarrel with that.

VIOLENCE IN AMERICA AND TV

The National Commission on the Causes and Prevention of Violence, headed by Dr. Milton Eisenhower, has turned up the following facts:

1. The average American between his second and 65th year spends 3000 entire days watching television. That is almost nine years of his life.

2. By the time a 6 year old child enters kindergarten he has spent more time learning about life from the family TV set than the average student in a liberal arts program spends in his four years of college attendance.

3. Based on a recent average week of TV programming,an incident of violence is enacted every 14 minutes and a killing every 45 minutes.

Employers have handled — or at least tolerated — problem-drinking employees. Special programs have been devised, recognized and implemented as ways to cope with drinking and working. The costs of "recovery" are a good investment, especially for a valued employee. These programs work and their value has been documented.

In view of our relative success with alcoholism, it is inconceivable that the "find 'em and fire 'em" attitude toward drug-using employees has caught on in as many places as it has. The "drugs are illegal" argument does not justify this policy. Dismissal creates more problems than it solves. Those affected are back in the job pool for some other company to hire or become a social and economic drain on the community. The company is faced with economic loss through retraining, a general morale problem, and a conscience problem if it is sensitive to the social needs of the plant community. All of the successful approaches toward the problem drinker are applicable toward drug users. The problems are not the same, but a willingness on the part of society to see both as health problems is the biggest hurdle in responding to drug use.

MADNESS IN ROME

Pope Paul VI, commenting on the work of a vandal who inflicted senseless damage on the statue Pieta in St. Peter's Basilica, said: "Sheer madness. Why such an act to a work that belongs to all humanity?" Pope Paul has asked a good question. It could be repeated all over the world. When the windows in a home in Wyoming, or London, or Mexico City or Tokyo are smashed, the owners of those windows feel a sense of outrage and helplessness. True the windows don't have the historical symbol of faith and the tradition of the Pieta, the Mother Mary holding the lifeless body of Christ, but those windows were a part of the home and the lives of people who nourish the faith of the Church, be it Christian or Jewish or Shinto or whatever.

Vandalism, like wanton assaults upon persons, has become all too commonplace all over the world. Victims and insurance agencies alike will attest to that fact. It matters little if the motivation is criminal, lunatic or childish pranks. The damage still is a loss to the owner.The family of a prankish child and the police and the courts can do much to correct the evils of vandalism. The permissive attitudes of people in many countries during the last 12 years have contributed to lawlessness, and that includes acts of vandalism. A check of police blotters in cities in the U.S. will verify the fact that there has been a heavy increase in vandal activities.

Experts believe the Pieta can be restored. Christianity will rejoice world-wide when the restoration is done. The work will rightfully be regarded as a triumph over evil. Vandalism is an evil and it will be subdued only when the evil in the hearts of men is cast aside. Then the Pieta will have an even greater meaning.

NEW YORK (AP) — My two teen-agers are home from their first year at college, neither much the worse from their initial exposure to the throes of higher education.

Each has gained something from the experience, but on the whole I would say that Lady Dottie, our 14-year-old cat, benefited more than my daughter Tracy Ann, who will be 19 this month.

They were both students at Windham, a small coed college idyllically situated in the green hills of Putney, Vt.

To a middle-aged adult such as myself, who got a little lost sometimes while attending a large Midwestern state university, Windham is the post card image of what a small modern, progressive college should look like.

In its pleasant atmosphere Lady Dottie flourished mightily. Although she cut every class and set a perfect nonattendance record, I would say she learned more than any other freshman at the place this year.

She left our apartment home last September a shy and socially awkward overweight maiden.

She has returned an accomplished woman of the world, completely at home in drawing room, field or forest. Roaming the Vermont woodlands has given her a new confidence in herself. She is thin and beautiful and imperious - and somewhat annoyed at being forced to return to the tame indoor city life of her youth.

"I guess that Lady Dottie got more out of college than I did," Tracy said. "She's hardly afraid of anything anymore. She's popular with the students, she has fought and whipped two dogs, and made friends with two more. She likes it up there."

But Lady Dottie didn't go to hell as a result of the freedoms that modern colleges now allow. She never learned to smoke a reefer, and she turned an ever deaf ear to the midnight invitations of Vermont's moon-influenced amorous tomcats. She remains as chaste as the day she left the veterinarian's hospital years ago, and that's about as chaste as a cat can get.

As to my other teenager - Tracy Ann - college has had a rather mixed impact so far.

"I didn't learn as much from books as I did from the people there," she said. "The first semester I found it difficult to get adjusted to life in a dormitory. Whenever you wanted to study or just be alone, there were always a dozen people in your room."

Things got better the second semester, but Tracy's grades were more dismal than heartening. Now, like thousands of other restless students, her age, she says she would like to take a year off before going back to college "so I can find myself."

"I'd like either just to roam around Europe or get a day job here and take acting lessons at night. I still don't know whether I want to be a veterinarian or an actress."

She is lucky to have a summer mailroom job that pays her $96 a week, $19 more than her father earned as a night city editor in New York in 1942.

"Don't try to fly before you have learned how to walk well," I caution her. The thought of her becoming a dropout chills my heart.

If Papa has his way - but he rarely does - come September both my teen-agers will go back to college, paw in hand, hand in paw.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

By Jack Anderson

WASHINGTON — When the Buffalo Creek dam burst last February, 21 million cubic feet of water, coal sludge and mud engulfed 16 West Viriginia communities with a force greater than that of Niagara Falls.

At least 118 persons were drowned or crushed to death that rainy Saturday and some 5,000 others were made homeless. At first, rescue work was seriously impaired because roads were blocked and the weather grounded aircraft.

By next morning, skies had cleared enough for helicopters to begin rescue and evacuation work. Five large military rescue helicopters, all assigned to the West Virginia Air National Guard, swung into action.

Only two, however, were given the urgent task of bringing in fresh water and evacuating survivors. The other three were commandeered by Gov. Arch Moore to carry him and two planeloads of bigwigs and newsmen to the scene.

The governor's arrival was carefully orchestrated. The press planes landed ahead of him him so the TV crews could set up to film Moore as he stepped out to inspect the damage.

In fact, the press got two chances to photograph the governor arriving at the scene. First, the choppers set down at a coal company air strip above the site of the flood and later at a hospital in the nearby town of Man.

It is impossible to say whether any lives could have been saved had Moore not taken over the three rescue helicopters that day. But we have spoken to members of the rescue team who believe speedier assistance might have cut the death toll.

Several of the chopper pilots are known to have been extremely upset because, after they landed at Man, Moore went off -- with the cameramen in tow -- to tour the area by car. The helicopters were simply left to await his return.

By mid-afternoon, several pilots decided to begin making evacuation trips into the devastated valley on their own. They were able to complete a few missions before the governor returned to be ferried back to Charleston.

The nightly TV news that grim Sunday was filled with the films of Arch Moore strutting about the scene of the disaster, acting concerned.

Reached by my associate Brit Hume, Governor Moore insisted his party only consisted of essential personnel. The newsmen, he said, were an afterthought. He acknowledged, however, that his party included two bodyguards and his press secretary.

ILLEGITIMATE RECORDS

Most of the nation's laws no longer discriminate against children born out of wedlock. But those upholders of law and order, the FBI and the Defense Department, keep careful tabs on illegitimacy.

Small wonder, therefore, that the Defense Department also notes such facts in its security clearance investigations. One such file in our possession prominently records that the young servicemen was "Borned (sic) OUT of Wedlock."

TEEN—AGE TALENT

Teen-agers are often accused by their grumping elders of spending more time with pot, pop records and parties than with serious studying. But two typical high school scientific projects sent in to us tell just the opposite story.

To show the effort of mercury pollution on living things, Cynde Hirschtick, a ninth-grader from Chicago, treated radish seeds with mercury. Even lightly bathed seeds failed to grow.

In Huntley, Minn., Mark Seetin, a high school senior, exposed fruit flies to color television in 1969 and found they suffered weird deformations. The determined Seetin, now in college, has kept up his experiments in hopes of warning those with older model TVs of radiation dangers and of forcing makers of newer models to do more research.

HARTKE'S HANDOUT

Sen. Vance Hartke, D-Ind., and other friends of the railroads and big truckers on Capitol Hill are trying to sneak through a bill that could cost the taxpayers more than $5 billion.

Called the Surface Transportation Act of 1972, the legislation is so full of windfalls for the railroads, bus lines and truckers that Ralph Nader's transportation experts call it the worst such bill they have ever seen. It is now pending in Hartke's own Senate Transportation subcommittee.

Some industries which stand to profit heartily from the bill, including the freight forwarders, have helped out Hartke financially in the past. The Teamsters, who would benefit indirectly, also have been staunch Hartke allies.

Masterminding the lobbying on behalf of the Association of American Railroads is ex-Sen. George Smathers, D-Fla., who in his day was one of Congress's most talented persuaders.

The railroads have also called in former astronaut Wally Schirra to do broadcast commercials and thus give the lobbying further respectability.

The bill would set up a $5 billion fund under the Secretary of the Treasury. The money could then be loaned for 15 years at token interest. A single carrier, furthermore, could borrow as much as $750 million.

One of the many loopholes is in the definition of "loan". The "loans" could concievably be written off as gifts. In any case, they would not have to be paid back until 15 years after completion of a project, thus allowing a clever company to delay repayment almost indefinitely.

The bill would also permit railroads to virtually dictate which routes they want to abandon with only 45 days' notice. This could mean financial chaos to small businesses, rural communities and shippers.

Finally, Hartke has built a huge tax loophole into the measure. It would give the surface transportation industry about $120 million a year in tax credits and $20 million in depreciation bonanza.

Hartke insists that he is offering the bill only to open up debate on it and not because he wants every clause enacted.

Court To Rule On How States Finance Schools

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court today agreed to rule on the way all states except Hawaii finance their public schools.

Acting on an appeal by Texas, the court said it would review next term a ruling by a three-judge federal court in San Antonio that the current property tax system disadvantages the poor and is unconstitutional.

Thirty states lined up with Texas in seeking review. But four of their governors backed the district court.

Eventually, the case may rival in importance the 1954 Brown vs. Board of Education suit that led to the desegregation of schools in Southern and border states.

In every state except Hawaii, public-school financing is based to a large degree on the local property tax. Though the states and federal government provide additional funds, the kind of education a child receives is related directly to the tax revenue from property in his district.

In other actions today, the court:

—Strengthened the Federal Communications Commission's authority to regulate cable television with a ruling that the FCC has power to order community antenna television operators to originate some of their own programming.

—Ruled that the Interstate Commerce Commission has the right to impose rules for the return of freight cars on all the nation's railroads.

Wants PSC To Settle Disputes

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — Marvin E. Jones, chairman, said today the state Public Service Commission should have the authority to settle territorial disputes between rural electric cooperatives and private utilities.

In a speech prepared for the Missouri Electric Cooperative Managers Association he said the public cannot be served properly if there is competition between cooperatives and private utilities in the same area.

"The object of the proposed legislation for regulation of cooperatives is to ensure adequate, safe service for the public at reasonable rates," he said.

"It is generally understood that the major reason this legislation failed to be approved in the last session of the General Assembly was due to the differences between private utilities and cooperatives over the issue of service area."

Raise FCC Control Over CATV

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court strengthened the Federal Communication Commission's authority to regulate cable television with a ruling today that the FCC has authority to order CATV operators to originate some of their own programming.

The court ruled 5-4 to overturn a decision by the U.S. Circuit Court in St. Louis that the FCC had overstepped its authority. The challenge to the FCC ruling had been brought by Midwest Video Corp. which operates cable television systems in Missouri, New Mexico and Texas.

Such systemp capture TV and radio signals and carry them by microwave or coaxial cables into homes, most in communities with poor reception for direct signals.

The FCC ordered in 1969 that CATV systems with more than 3,500 subscribers must be able to present programs other than automated services.

What's The Law?

States Can Ban Sale Of Cigarettes

By Jack Strauss, LL.B.

Sidney was in the business of selling cigarettes and was raking in the profits with no butts about it. Then, a state law was passed that prohibited the importation of cigarettes and Sidney tearfully envisioned his profits going up in smoke.

Pulling himself together, however, Sidney decided to ignore such a revolting possibility by ignoring the anticigarette law and continued business as usual.

The result? It didn't take long before the gendarmes lowered the boom on him and Sidney found himself in court charged with being a law breaker.

"I can't be convicted of breaking that law," he protested to the judge. "It's both illegal and unenforceable. Under the interstate commerce clause of the United States Constitution, states can't interfere with the importation of legitimate articles of trade from one state to another. And, as an article of trade, cigarettes couldn't be more legitimate if they were the product of a marriage."

"No, they aren't, retorted the prosecuting attorney. "Tobacco is a nauseating plant consumed by only two creatures, a large green worm and man. The worm doesn't know any better and man should. Since he doesn't, we have a right to protect him."

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you hold that the anticigarette law is an unconstitutional interference with the interstate commerce clause?

This is how the judge ruled: NO! The judge held that under a state's police power, a state has the authority to prohibit the importation and sale of articles that are unfit for the use of its citizens. And, in this case, concluded the judge, cigarettes are harmful and never beneficial. Consequently, the importation and sale of cigarettes can be prohibited by a state. Matter Of GOP Concern

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — A spat in the Republican camp over office space last week has caused concern for 34 GOP candidates for the Missouri House of Representatives.

Gerry Durnell of Springfield said he and 33 other House candidates want a meeting of all Republican candidates for the House to get matters cleared up.

The flareup began last week when Rep. Les Langsford, R-Springfield, chairman of "82 in '72", accused House Minority Leader John T. Russell, R-Lebanon, of turning over the organization's office to forces working for Christopher "Kit" Bond for governor.

A letter from Durnell to Langsford was hand delivered today at the capitol press room by a Republican state employe.

Durnell's letter asks what the fate of "82 in '72" holds in view of the loss of its headquarters which, he said, candidates understood would be maintained through November. The organization is an effort to elect a Republican majority to the Missouri House of representatives," Durnell wrote. "We further believe that it is in the best interest of our own candidacies not to align ourselves as a group with any candidate for governor prior to the primary election.

"The recent take-over of our headquarters contradicts this intention and lends to shift the now equitable balance of the Republican gubernatorial candidates."

Russell said last week that the "82 in '72" organization had not been staffed for some time and the office was no longer needed.

Networks Want Support For Children's Programs

NEW YORK (AP) — Lester at it and see if you can't find something good. It's there."

Cooper is the executive producer, creator and writer of ABC's award-winning Sunday morning children's show, "Make A Wish." He is proud of the product but is getting impatient about the blanket criticism of children's programs.

"The only way television—network television—can continue to do something good in this area is to have people out there say that there is something good," Cooper said. "Dammit, don't keep telling me how bad television is: look at it and see if you can't find something good. It's there."

ABC tapped Cooper to create a new children's show about a year ago.

"We had been doing 'Discovery' and it was a good show but the kids grew up with it and we found we were reaching too old an audience," Cooper said. "We wanted a new concept for the ones between 6 and 12.

The comic and the staff came up with a form involving everything from quick cuts from one subject to another in which to present material. For example, to illustrate how bad television is: look "Laughin" style, to animation and even music.

"We move fast and we don't stop to explain," he said. "The younger ones enjoy the visual part and the others get it or they don't. I remember writing one show about flying and at one point I mentioned Icarus. I just said he had wax wings and flew too close to the sun so they melted. I only hope that sometime Icarus may be mentioned and some kid who saw the show will say 'Oh, oh, I know something about that,' and be interested to know more."

For next season's 32 shows, Cooper has picked subjects from migratory patterns of deer to the shape of trains of the future.

The producer has three teenagers of his own and believes youngsters today are particular challenges to their parents "because the world has changed and so have attitudes."

"Kids have a right to ask questions now," Cooper said. "I tell my boy he cannot ride his bicycle at night. He immediately asks me why I got him a light to put on it. That's hard to answer.

"The main point I'm trying to make," he summed up, "is that the networks are willing to do good children's programs. But we need support. Unless we get it, what's the point of trying to do it?"

You won't find any flies in your soup these days—they all out on the patio enjoying the barbecue.

The Prayer from The Upper Room

Work out your own salvation with fear and trembling; for God is at work in you, both to will and to work for his good pleasure; (Philippians 2:12-13, RSV)

PRAYER: O Lord, we ask forgiveness for our self-centered nature. Grant us the light of Jesus that we may follow in His footsteps which lead into the abundant life He promises to us. In His name we ask. Amen.

SENATOR STUART SYMINGTON WASHINGTON REPORT

SENATE PASSES BILL TO KEEP POISONOUS CHEMICALS OFF MARKET; OUT OF ENVIRONMENT

WASHINGTON, D. C. – By a vote of 77 to 0 a bill which the Senate has passed for the first time would provide authority for the Environmental Protection Agency to regulate the commercial marketing of chemical substances that could be hazardous to human health and the environment.

This legislation would establish the policy that all new and certain existing chemical substances be tested for their effects on man and the environment; also that the testing would be the responsibility of those who produce the chemicals.

The Administrator of EPA could require manufacturers of certain chemicals to first monitor their products, then furnish EPA with the results.

Numerous new home and industrial chemicals would be subject to pre-market testing by EPA 90 days prior to commercial production of the substance.

In addition, the Administrator could order the testing of existing substances which appear to pose an unreasonable threat to human health or the environment.

During the testing of existing substances, the Administrator would have authority to restrict their use or distribution. He could ask United States District Court to restrain use or distribution of any substances which he believed poses an imminent threat to either health or the environment.

Individual citizens also could assist in enforcement of this and proposed legislation through the opportunity to bring a civil action in a District Court to insure proper regulation of chemical substances.

Environmental problems incident to dangerous industrial chemicals and chemicals in consumer products have become clear.

A prime example of such a chemical substance is mercury. A recent Life magazine article, describing the effect of mercury pollution on human life in the highly industrialized nation of Japan, told of industrial wastes containing mercury that were poured into a village bay. This resulted in twisted limbs, blindness, deformed babies and many cases death.

While some steps have been taken in the United States to control industrial discharges of mercury, testimony before the Subcommittee on the Environment revealed that a threat also may be posed by the presence of mercury in such consumer products as paint, home thermometers, sponges and other commonly accepted products.

Other chemical substances such as lead, cadmium and various heavy metals, as well as plastics and other synthetic organic compounds, could pose comparable threats.

An April 1971 report of the Council on environmental Quality states that there are 2 million chemical compounds in existence. Some 250,000 new compounds are produced each year, and several hundred of the latter find their way into the market place.

If passed by the House and signed by the President, the Toxic Substances Control Act will provide additional safeguards for our health and the environment.

Blackman-Nowell Vows Exchanged

Two spiral candelabras flanking an arched brass candelabrum with lighted pink tapers formed the background for the wedding of Miss Connie L. Nowell to Roger G. Blackman May 26 at 8 p.m. in the First United Methodist church.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bob C. Nowell, Sikeston and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Blackman of Bertrand.

A brass arch trimmed in boxwood and a white and gold kneeling bench formed the foreground of the altar. The aisle was lined with hurricane lamps, greenery and pink satin bows.

Four trees of pink candles and greenery and two white pedestals and grecian urns filled with greenery completed the setting for the double ring ceremony performed by the Rev. Archie Holt of Oran.

Mrs. David Burns of Morehouse, organist, presented prenuptial selections after which Kevin Nowell, brother of the bride, and Stuart Boswell of Aurora, Ill., cousin of the bride, lighted the altar tapers.

Following the vows the bride and groom approached the altar, extinguished two candles and lighted one together as a symbol of their unity. As the soloist sang, "We've Only Just Begun", the wedding party departed from the sanctuary.

The gown was designed and made by Mrs. John Sherman, cousin of the bride.

The bride's hair was adorned with clusters of pink rosebuds and baby's breath. She carried a cascade bouquet of white daisy pom poms and pink roses with white baby's breath and greenery of ivy.

The bride completed her attire in the tradition of something old and something new. She wore a diamond heart shaped necklace given to her as a wedding gift from the groom. She also wore a gold heirloom bracelet which had been given to her great grandmother as an engagement present by her great grandfather.

Mrs. Roger Blackman

Miss Vicki Schindler of Morehouse was maid of honor and Mrs. Pam Blackman, sister-in-law of the groom, was the matron of honor.

The attendants wore identical floor length dresses of pink and white gingham check, flocked with white daisies. Their dresses were accented with a bibbed bodice, stand up collar, full sleeves and a bottom ruffle. A self belt at the bodice featured a tailored bow at the back. They wore pink picture hats with pink daisies circling the crown. They carried white baskets of pink and white daisies with baby's breath and ivy.

Leo Blackman, brother of the groom, was best man. Roger Tolliver was groomsman. Terry Nowell, brother of the bride, and Sidney Stauffer, cousin of the groom, were ushers.

The mother of the bride wore an aqua dress trimmed at the throat, belt and hemline with white lace. The groom's mother wore a pink and gray long sleeved dress. Both mothers wore white orchids.

A reception was held immediately after the ceremony in Epworth Hall. Mrs. Robert Schwab and Mrs. Rex Lambert were hostesses. Serving were Judy Hurley of Charleston, Mrs. Roger Tolliver, Mrs. Ronnie Hurley and Mrs. Steve Ledbetter of Bertrand, sister of the groom.

The guest book table was presided over by Mrs. Donald Metz of Bloomfield. Missy Nowell of New Madrid, cousin of the bride, and Amy Blackman, niece of the groom, distributed rice bags. They all wore pink dresses.

Background for the serving table was white lattice entwined with ivy and pink daisies. The table was decorated with two silver candelabra filled with pink and white daisies and ivy.

The bride's cake was trimmed with pink flowers.

A late evening buffet was held on the patio at the home of the bride's parents. Family and friends were seated poolside. Torches and candles were scattered throughout the yard. The serving table was laden with candles and a watermelon fruit basket as a centerpiece.

Mr. and Mrs. Ira Throop of New Madrid, Mr. and Mrs. Clyde R. Boswell of Long Beach, Calif., grandparents of the bride, and C. E. Stauffer of Charleston, grandfather of the groom, attended the wedding.

Out of town guests attending were Mr. and Mrs. Bill Boswell, Mrs. Lynn Thompson, Mrs. Don Neal, Mr. and Mrs. Jeff Boswell, Scott Mesbach, Judy Bond and Mr. and Mrs. Kenny Cantrell, all of Cape Girardeau.

Others included:

Mr. and Mrs. N. G. Nowell and children, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Halford and children, Mrs. Ernest Carpenter, Mr. and Mrs. Ken Cope and Jane Dawson, all of New Madrid.

Mr. and Mrs. Cletus Haas, Mrs. Sally Poyner and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Ledbetter, all of Charleston.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Jones of Kennett; Elaine Roberts of St. Louis; Mr. and Mrs. Jim Blackman of East Prairie; Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Woods and Mr. and Mrs. Tommy Woods of Bertrand; Mr. and Mrs. Mike Haas of Benton.

Mr. and Mrs. Donald Metz of Bloomfield; Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Schindler of Morehouse; Dave Collier of Memphis; David Shy of Chaffee and Clarence Myers of St. Genevieve.

Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Boswell, Jr. and children of Aurora, Ill.; Laura Boswell of Chicago; Russell Ross of Fulton, Ky.; Dr. and Mrs. Jerry Boswell and children of Fort Wayne, Ind.; Dr. and Mrs. Richard Hann of University City.

The groom is a graduate of Sikeston High School and attended Southeast Missouri State College. He is employed at Malone Hyde.

The U. S. Department of Agriculture has found that oil crushed from orange skins interfers with the growth of bacteria. He and his colleagues added orange oil to suspensions of bacteria -- all capable of causing serious infection. Within two days the growth of the germs was 90 per cent -- and in some cases 100 per cent -- inhibited. U.S.D.A. scientists now predict that orange oil added to foods; milk, for instance -- will make them keep much longer.

Ann Landers

Aries Boyfriend Has Hot Temper

Dear Ann Landers: My ex-boyfriend is involved with my mother. The reason he is my ex is because he didn't treat me right and I told him to get lost.

My mother is in her late 30's and divorced. My ex-boyfriend is 19. When we were dating he used to tell Mom his troubles and she gave him advice. I thought when we broke up that would be the end of it but he still comes over to see Mom. I can't stand to be around them. I guess it was pretty dumb of me not to notice there was more between them than "motherly advice."

The guy has spent time in a mental hospital and I know he's a little off but I thought my mother had more sense than to fool around with a kid young enough to be her son. What should I do? It's beginning to get to me. --Wit's End.

Dear Wit's: You can do nothing about your mother's company. But if you can't stand to be around them, there IS something you can do about that. When the ex shows up, make yourself scarce.

Dear Ann Landers: I am an average middle-class woman with a nice husband. He has a small business, we own a modest home and have no big worries. Our only child is six years old and I am pretty certain we will not have more children. The question I am writing about may sound peculiar but I need an answer. If something should happen to both my husband and me, is there a law that says an orphaned child must be raised by a relative? I have one living parent and my husband has one also. Neither would be a suitable guardian for our child. My sisters have not done a very good job with their children and my husband's sister has four kids she didn't want and it shows.

Unfortunately we did not name godparents when our child was born. Is it too late to do so? Would godparents be the answer? Please give me some guidance. This thing has been preying on my mind for over a year. --- Battle Creek.

Dear B.C.: Godparents have no legal obligations. My advice is to make a choice, discuss it with whomever you've chosen and learn if they are willing to accept the responsibility. If so, make a will and state your wishes in writing. In the absence of a will, your child would probably be placed in the home of relatives.

Dear Ann Landers: I am 18 years of age and a recording artist with a trio. My career is a real groove so that's not the problem. What I am writing about is my boyfriend. Clyde and I have been going together for two years and I love him more than anybody in the whole world. The trouble is that Clyde is an Aries -- Very aggressive, jealous, and likes to boss me around. He has a hot temper and punches me whenever I say something he doesn't like. This interferes with my public appearances because stage make-up can cover the black and blue marks only so much.

I should tell you that I lie to him sometimes, not to hide anything but because I figure what he doesn't know can't hurt him, or me. When he finds out I haven't told him the truth he gets like wild. The problem is that I can't live WITH him and I can't live without him. Please don't tell me to find somebody else. Clyde is perfect except for the few little faults I've mentioned. What should I do? --Chickadee Dotsy

Dear Chick: You don't want advice. You've already told me what NOT to tell you. You just wanted to write a letter --- and now that you've written it I hope you feel better.

Hike In Bernie Phone Rate To Be Contested

BERNIE — During a special meeting of the city council the aldermen voted to protest a rate increase asked by the United Telephone Co. The increase would be a $2.15 for private lines and a one- dollar increase for four- party lines.

The city has ordered a fire truck from the Ozark Fire Equipment Co. in Springfield, Ill. and a Ford chassis for the truck from Rowe Ford Sales in Malden. Cost of the truck and equipment will be approximately $20,750.

The aldermen passed an ordinance accepting the Ray White subdivision number two consisting of 52 lots.

The city will advertise for bids for the extension of two sewer lines in the south part of town.

It was reported that the city has moved a 2,000- foot high pressure gas line west of town on route U where the state highway department is relocating part of the highway. This was done at one- fourth the cost of what it could be contracted for.

"Things Are Looking Up"

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The St. Louis Cardinals and San Francisco Giants are 14½ games out of first place, with just one major difference.

Cards Manager Red Schoendienst says things are looking up.

"We're starting to get some timely hits, and we're hitting the ball where they ain't," the St. Louis manager said Tuesday night after a 5-2 victory over the Giants.

"We had runners on base and couldn't get them in. The same old story," said Giants Manager Charlie Fox, whose team has lost four straight games.

San Francisco has a miserable 6-24 record at home for the baseball season and has been last in the National League's Western Division since May 2. The Cardinals recently climbed to fifth in the Eastern Division.

Fox, after spending the weekend in a hospital because of kidney stones, spent his stopper, Steve Stone, against St. Louis.

"He went to the well once too often with his breaking ball," said Joe Torre, who hit a bases-empty home run off Stone, 3-5, in the sixth inning.

Ted Simmons broke a 2-2 tie in the eighth with a two-run double off another breaking pitch. It gave Simmons a 12-game hitting streak and pitcher Rick Wise, 5-5, a victory.

The homer by Torre was the first earned run in 19 -23 innings off Stone, who went into the game with three straight complete games victories.

Royals Now KC-Omaha Kings

KANSAS CITY (AP) — The Cincinnati Royals of the National Basketball Association are now officially the Kansas CityOmaha Kings.

Joe Axelson, the team's general manager, made the announcement of the new nickname Friday night, following a month-long contest.

The Kings will play 26 games in Kansas City's Municipal Auditorium next season and 15 in Omaha's Civic Auditorium.

KC Stadium Royaless

KANSAS CITY (AP) — There will be no baseball in the Harry S. Truman sports complex this season.

The Kansas City Royals announced Tuesday they have abandoned the idea of playing in their big new stadium in 1972.

Attorney Phil Koury, a spokesman for Royals owner Ewing Kauffman, said, "Our goal was that we would accept the stadium only in the event the public would find it both beautiful and safe."

Koury admitted the stadium could be used this season but added:

"It would mean playing in a stadium lacking in certain conveniences to the public, in certain elements of safety and, above all, lacking in the beauty that will be so apparent when the stadium is completed."

The Royals will pay only $180,000 in rent this year by not using the stadium. The rent would be $400,000 if they played only one game.

The Kansas City Chiefs plan to occupy the complex's football stadium next season. They play their first exhibition game Aug. 12.

Roberts Heads Padre Draft

NEW YORK (AP) — The Los Angeles Dodgers stepped into the batter's box today to grab off the No. 1 pick in the secondary phase of baseball's free agent draft after the San Diego Padres gave unknown Dave Roberts his first push toward a major league career.

Roberts, a junior third baseman at the University of Oregon, was made the No. 1 pick in the regular phase as the draft began Tu esday becoming only the second collegian in the 15-year history of the selection process to be tabbed a No. 1 choice.

The other collegian selected No. 1 was outfielder Rick Monday, drafted out of Arizona State by the Oakland A's in 1965 and now a regular with the Chicago Cubs.

Roberts offers impressive credentials in his bid for a major league berth, including a .410 batting average at Oregon and a homer and two singles in five at-bats in an exhibition game against the Philadelphia Phillies' Eugene, Ore., farm club.

Despite the fact he's a junior, he is ready to begin starting up the ladder.

The Padres announced Tuesday night that they had signed Roberts at his home in Corvallis, Ore. Terms of the contract were not announced.

The Padres said Roberts would be in a San Diego uniform for their twi-night doubleheader at home against the Pittsburgh Pirates Wednesday.

Any players drafted in the regular phase who do not sign go back into the pool and can be drafted again the following year. It is players previously drafted who did not sign who will be up for grabs in today's secondary phase.

Two players who came out of last year's secondary phase are pitchers Pete Broberg of Texas and Burt Hooton of the Chicago Cubs, who earlier this season pitched a no-hitter.

The order of draft following Los Angeles was: Cleveland, New York Mets, Texas, San Diego, California, Houston, Kansas City, Cincinnatti, Milwaukee, Atlanta, Detroit, Montreal, New York Yankees, Chicago Cubs, Chicago White Sox, Philadelphia, Minnesota, San Francisco, Boston, St. Louis, Baltimore, Pittsburgh and Oakland.

Cards Sign Crane

ST. LOUIS — Defensive end Gary Crane and running back Silas McKinnie, both with prior professional football experience, have signed as free agents with the football Cardinals, it was announced today.

Crane, 26, was a 14th-round draft choice of Denver in 1969 and played with the Broncos that season before spending the next two years in the U. S. Army at Fort Sill, Okla. The 6-4, 250-pounder was a member of the Big Red All-Stars basketball team during the winter.

Born in Dexter where he was an all-state prep star, Crane was a three-sports standout at Arkansas State University, lettering as a defensive end and tight end in football and also playing baseball and baseball.

McKinnie, also 26, played the last four years with the Saskatchewan Roughriders of the Canadian Football League.

What Did Giants Say to Mays: 'Goodby' or 'Good Riddance'?

By MURRAY OLDERMAN

SAN FRANCISCO—(NEA)—A lot of drivel has been coming out of San Francisco in recent days about the trading of Willie Mays, up to and including Mayor Joseph Alioto's ridiculous doggerel that "the mighty Stoneham has struck out."

The maudlin eulogies to the figurative passing of Willie fogged the fact that for at least a couple of years Willie has been a pain in the butt to the San Francisco Giants. Bluntly, they could no longer afford him. If you want to applaud Horace Stoneham for his altruism in finding Willie a home, with the New York Mets, where he can live for the next few years in the style to which he has become accustomed, then temper it with the admission Horace had also run down his business to the point where Willie had become a drag.

Let's make one point clear. Willie Mays was a great, great ballplayer—and maybe in a spurt or two, even at the age of 41, he can justify his hefty salary.

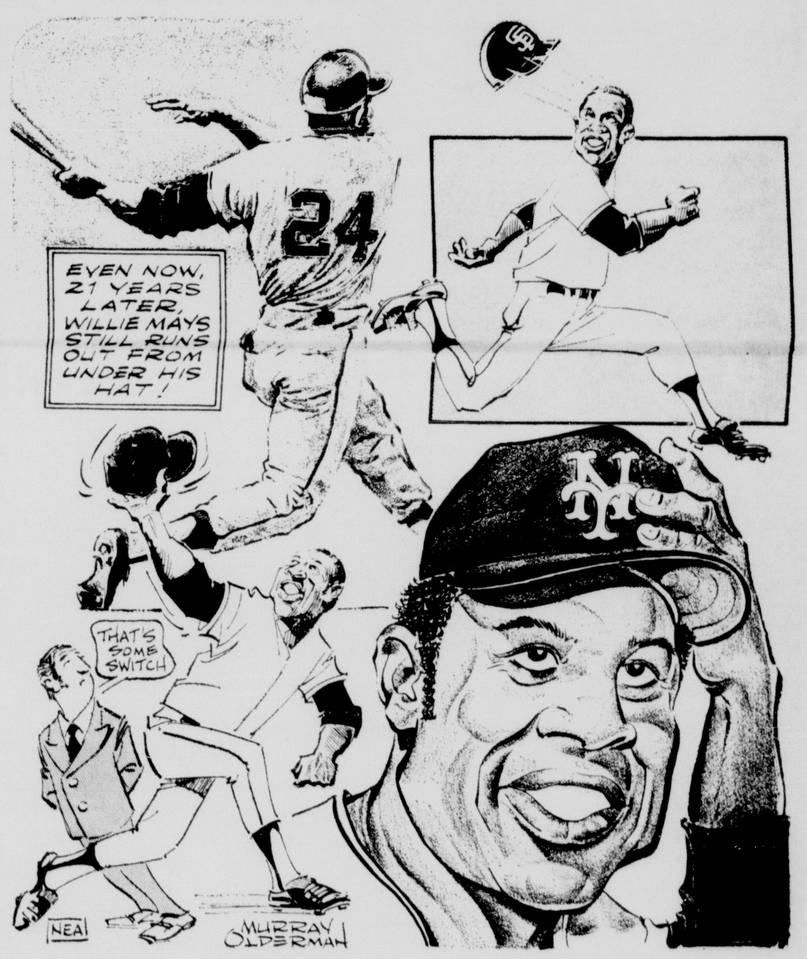
A great humanitarian, he isn't.

That's why he wasn't worth keeping around after his active playing days, despite the fact he has been the living symbol of the Giants for 21 years. (For comparison, Stan Musial, who occupied a similar niche in St. Louis, maintained an alliance with the Cardinals which persists and is a senior vice-president of the club, dispensing good will.)

"The only mistake Stoneham made," says a man close to the Giants, "was not trading him three years ago." When Willie was a lot more marketable as a ballplayer — remember, he hasn't hit .300 for half a dozen seasons.

The Giants have been notorious for padding their payroll with old-timers. Cronyism and nostalgic largesse have been the modus agendi for the Stoneham regime. Willie didn't qualify because there was no way to justify $75,000 a year as a gesture of good cheer. Willie in recent years hasn't been spreading any. He's been more sullen and withdrawn than anything else in his personal relations.

HAT TRICK



The resumed love affair of New York and Willie reminds me of a guy who runs into his old broad many years later and gets a titillating tug of passion, but soon he notices the wrinkles.

The effusive, ebuillient "Say Hey" kid of the 1950s who played stickball and oozed joie de vivre hasn't really been revived. That's a journalistic infatuation. When Willie todays acts like he's "home" and gushes sentimentality, it's an emotional parody because nothing's the same as it used to be. Not New York, not Willie. Only the money is better.

The media people who embraced the kid from Alabama—over the years he was more responsive to the visiting press from New York than he was to his own guys in San Francisco—have changed, too. They're younger and more probing and less rhapsodic. A peevish 41-year-old outfielder won't overwhelm them. When or if Willie turns petulant and complains about being tired or harassed, which was his pattern with the Giants, he'll be criticized.

An impression has been left that Willie was never embraced by San Francisco and therefore had his feelings hurt. Actually, he was in an adulatory climate, and his abilities as a ball player were never minimized. What happened was that Willie passed from adolescence into adulthood without a hitch as a performer but without corresponding growth as a public figure. He had some personal problems which made him more seclusive. He was increasingly sensitive to any critical comments. And he was a tough guy on his managers.

Willie went his own way, which was all right when he was best player of his time.

It wasn't all right when high inside fast balls began to slip by his fluttering bat.

It's a very unsentimental world we live in.

Sex Discrimination Suit Filed

WICHITA, Kan. (AP) — A landmark Kansas suit seeking to establish the right of a girl to compete for a place on the boys' golf team at Wichita North High School was filed Monday in Sedgwick County District Court.

Plaintiff is Erin Wright, 15, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donnel T. Wright.

Gasper said in a telephone interview that, while similar suits have been filed in other states, this is the first to be filed in Kansas charging discrimination on the basis of sex in high school athletics.

"This is a sort of a friendly suit," Gasper said, "and I'm completely in sympathy with her request. What they are trying to do is to get it out into the open as to what are the rights of the young girl."

Noting that none of Wichita's high schools has a girls' golf team, he said he had requested permission from the Kansas High School Activities Association, which controls high school athletic programs, for Miss Wright to try out for the boys' team.

Gasper said permission was refused.

"They need to provide a place for Erin and her game." Mrs. Wright said her daughter is a serious golfer, has been playing the game since she was 10 and averages 85 for 18 holes.

"We are not trying to have Erin put on the team, Mrs. Wright said, "but she should have the right to try out for it."

The suit, filed by attorney Kay Arvin, alleges the defendants by their refusal to permit Erin to compete in the North golf program "are using public monies and public lands for discriminatory purposes, contrary to law."

Mickey Mantle Out Of Work

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — For 18 years, Mickey Mantle kept busy knocking out homers and breaking batting marks for the New York Yankees.

Now Mantle says he's not busy anymore and no one will give him what he really wants.

"I don't really have a job," Mantle said Monday, "I'm not doing much of anything. We have real estate, public relations. I go to spring training every year with the Yankees."

Mantle said he would be particularly receptive to a managing offer.

Lewis Pitcher Throws One-Hitter

A one-hitter and some really exciting baseball action was the story in Tuesday night's Little League competition. Farris, Puckett and the Senior High fields were all buzzing with action as three leagues participated in play.

In the National League, Lewis Furniture walked over A & B Leasing, 10-0 in five innings. In the second game, Kiwanis downed Pizza Inn, 14-6. First National Bank slipped past Jenkins in a close contest, 19-18, in the American League. Also in the American League, the Police team demolished Flower Basket, 17-3. It was Kingsway Plaza with 14 to only five runs for Harts Bread in the first game of the night in Musial League action. Nunnelee downed the Bank of Sikeston, 12-5 in the second game.

Francis pitched a one-hitter against the A & B Leasing squad, gaining winning pitcher honors for Lewis Furniture. White took the loss for A & B. Lewis Furniture's Davis connected for the only extra-base hit of the night with a fourth inning double.

Kiwanis sent Mike Dewitt to the mound to collect the victory. Hunt was given the loss for the Pizza Inn squad. Three doubles were part of the night's action, with Dewitt, Butler, and McCaley making the connections.

Both teams rallied with a barrage of hitting in a tense game of the American League, but neither was able to cancel the other out. Finally, First National was able to slip in the one-run advantage that nailed the victory. Jenkins' shortstop, Barborek, slugged a triple in the first inning. Lasiter and Hannah had doubles. Mayfield paced the First National team with four hits, and four runs scored. Longsheet had a double to have the only extra base hit for the Bankers. Bryant collected the mound win. Alsop took the loss.

The Flower Basket was unable to block the onslaught of the Police squad and especially a final inning rally that chalked up seven runs. Ziegler performed mound duties to be credited with the win for his squad, handing Overby the loss. Police was paced by the plate ability of first baseman Gardner with three hits — including a triple — and three runs. Tanner, Grojean, Noel, Overby, and Coetz all collected doubles for their squads.

In the Musial League, Kingsway Plaza made easy prey of the Harts Bread team in four innings of play. Kingsway jumped to a 9-3 first inning lead and held it in the remainder of play. Tim McKenney was the winning moundsman for the Plaza, handing the loss to Danny Smith for Harts.Smith made up for it at the plate with his double that paced the squad. Second baseman Williams and first baseman Leonard collected doubles for Kingsway.

Cortez Smith performed well in leading his team past the Bank of Sikeston, as the young hurler took the win. Ronnie Dodd was handed the loss. Nunnelee rallied in the third for seven runs scored to establish an unyielding lead. Second baseman Ratledge took the spotlight with three runs and three hits, including one double. Bank of Sikeston's third baseman Rodgers slammed a double.

SACKIN' EM UP ... is Ziegenhorn Insurance's batboy, Terry Hatchett, after his American League team downed Ryan Construction, 22-2, in a game played Monday at Farris Field.

Wissman Hurls No-Hitter

Hart's Bread pitcher Rick Wissman was in complete control of last night's Junior Babe Ruth Opener as he checked the Turner Dairy line- up with a no- hit shutout in the Bakers' 5-0 victory. Wissman kept the opposition spinning as he sent 15 of the 23 batters he faced back to he dugout with strikeouts.

In the nightcap, Davis and Byrd sent runners home in each of the last four innings on the way to the 12-1 win over Home Materials. Deal and Stokes paced the winners at the plate with two safeties apiece.

Wissman's no- hit pitching performance outshadowed his teammates' eight safeties. The Hart's Bread hurler walked only one batter and stranded two batters as the Turner lineup failed to reach second base in the contest.

Hampton, Taylor and Wissman anchored the Hart's Bread battery with two hits each. Jackson went the distance to score for the losers.

In the nightcap, Davis and Byrd scored five big runs in the sixth inning, jumpg into a 10-1 lead over Home Materials. Deal crossed home plate four times for the winners as pitcher Stokes padded his win with a double.

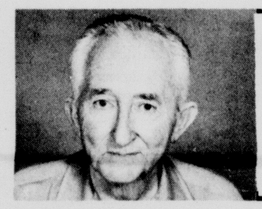
Golf Comments

By Riggs Wesley

SEMO Golf Association Secretary



Ninety- four couples converged on the 328 greens of the Kennett Country Club, as the 3rd Annual Mixed Scotch Tournament got underway, Saturday and Sunday, June third and fourth. The man and woman teams were named to four classes after the 18-hole qualifying round, beginning their conquest of the 36-hole, par 61 course. Procedure followed by the contestants was for selective drive, the remainder of course by alternating shot. Now for the winners .....

In the Championship round, Mr. and Mrs. Les Abernathy of Jonesboro, Ark. returned from last year's victory to again win first with a joint achievement of 151. Mr. and Mrs. Sam Gibbens took second place honors with a score of 153. Third place went to Dr. and Mrs. Joe Zimmerman of Kennett with a 154. Mr. and Mrs. Ronnie Dunlap of Blytheville were tied with the Zimmermans for third with their 154, but the positions were decided by comparing the scores of the first hole on the qualifying round and continuing on in the case of a tie there, placing the Dunlaps fourth. The C. W. Knauts of Piggott, Ark., shot a joint effort of 15 for fifth position, and Mr. and Mrs. Les Huber were sixth with 163.

Mr. and Mrs. Mack Baine of Sikeston jointly shot 160 to pace the A class. A 164 by the Atteberrys was second best. Mr. and Mrs. Cobler were third place winners with their score of 165. The Bartons of Poplar Bluff shot 166 to place fourth. Mr. and Mrs. Jim Collier and the Friedewalds placed fifth and sixth respectively with scores of 166 each, finishing the class A roster.

In B class, Mr. and Mrs. Don Winston of Portageville took first place honors after shooting a low score of 167. A 170 by the Lewis couple was next in the competition. Mr. and Mrs. Wendell Choate from Charleston came in third with their final slate of 171 points. David Cohen and Margo Astrachan, both of Kennett, teamed up to shoot 173 for fourth position. Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Edwards also had a score of 173 to take fifth by the tie- breaking process. Mr. and Mrs. Bob Miller took sixth with 174 points.

Winning first in Class C was Mike Kelly of Kennett and Grace Cottle of Cape Girardeau with 178. The second position was filled by Mr. and Mrs. Dave Andrews of Senath with 183. Mr. and Mrs. T. E. Miles, Mr. and Mrs. Towny Sparks and Mr. and Mrs. Bill Brigance, all of Kennett, with scores of 185 took third, fourth and fifth places respectively. Sixth place was filled by Mr. and Mrs. Lee.

Trophies were presented to first place finishers only, with prizes for all the other winners.

EBB HAIR CONSULTANT IN SIKESTON, MO., FRIDAY

Will Explain Hair Problems Free

Louisville, Ky., June 7, Mr. M. J. Hornick will be back in Sikeston, Mo. again Friday, June 9. Now is the time to act on this great opportunity. Every man and woman now loosing hair should take advantage of this FREE CONSULTATION.

GUARANTEED

You will be given a written guarantee on a pro-rated basis from the beginning to the end.

Naturally we could not give you such a guarantee if it didn't work.

CAN'T HELP

Male pattern baldness is the cause of a great majority of cases of baldness and excessive hair loss, for which no method is effective. Ebb Hair Specialists cannot help those who are slick bald after years of gradual hair loss.

But, if you are not already slick bald, how can you be sure what is actually causing your hair loss? Even if baldness seems to "run in the family," this is certainly no proof of the cause of your hair loss.

Many conditions can cause hair loss. No matter which one is causing your hair loss, if you wait until you are slick Bald and your hair roots are dead you are beyond help. So, if you still have hair on top of your head, and would like to stop hair loss and grow more hair ... now is the time to do something about it before it's too late.

FREE CONSULTATION

Just take a few minutes of your time on Friday, June 9, and go to the Holiday Inn in Sikeston, Mo. between 1 p.m. and 8:30 p.m. and ask the Desk Clerk for M. J. Hornick's room number.

There is no charge or obligation ... all consultations are private, you will not be embarrassed in any way.

T. A. Melton Shows He-ReGrew Hair. He Did Not Have Male Pattern Baldness.

Mental Health Director Criticized For Pay Hikes

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — The state Fiscal Affairs Committee grilled Dr. Harold Robb, acting director of the state Division of Mental Health, for more than an hour Tuesday about unauthorized pay hikes for higher paid employes.

When asked who authorized the salary increases, Robb answered: "Me."

The committee, made up of seven state senators and representatives, did not mask their displeasure at the $90,000 plus salary increases from April to June 31 which would cost about $400,000 to continue through the coming fiscal year.

They voted 9 to 2 to call the "violation of legislative intent" to the attention of Gov. Warren E. Hearnes and ask that Robb be directed to go back to the line-item budget passed by the legislature.

In effect, that could mean 938 of the division's 10,000 employes who got raises April 1 would go back to their old salaries. Most were for higher paid workers and professionals.

The committee also agreed to call the state Mental Health Commission to Jefferson City June 27 to let them know how they feel about the raises.

Members took the position that it was the intent of the General Assembly that a statepaid retirement and insurance plan took the place of pay raises for all state workers. The committee chairman said demonstrations last month in Kansas City by mental health workers who did not get pay hikes was "only the beginning of morale problems.

Sen. Donald L. Manford, DKansas City, Senate appropriations chairman and chairman of the Fiscal Affairs Committee, called for the confrontation at the committee's May meeting. He and House appropriations chairman E. J. "Lucky" Cantrell, D-Overland, led the quiz but others voiced their displeasure too.

Robb said the money for the pay increases for the rest of the fiscal year came from funds for the nursing home placement program. He said no money was appropriated to continue the program through the coming fiscal year anyway.

He said the $400,000 for continuing the pay raises would be "up to individual hospital superintendents to find" through delayed recruitment and management.

Cantrell, who made the motion to put the agency back on its approved budget, told Robb, "I am very disappointed with your administration of the division," and stalked out of the room after asking Robb what right he had to drop the nursing home placement program before the end of the year.

Cantrell said Robb was "going to have to cut services some place and we don't agree programs should be curtailed — we don't agree with your priorities."

Manford told Robb it was the legislature's responsibility to run state government, not individual agency heads.

"Somebody has to run state government and that is the legislature's job," Manford said to which Robb asked if he would also take the responsibility.

"We accept the responsibility when we approve the budget and you are to stay within the guidelines of the budget," Manford snapped.

"He shall speak words against the Most High, and shall wear out the saints of the Most High, and shall think to change the times and the law; and they shall be given into his hand for a time, two times, and half a time."—Daniel 7:25.

Britain Says Evidence Indicates Legal Drug System Working Well

LONDON (AP) — A heroin addict who mistimed his last dose walked into a London clinic, twitching.

"You look awful," a doctor said. Then he handed out a legal narcotics prescription under the tax-subsidized National Health Program.

Once again a junkie had turned up just for another fix that could eventually kill him, rejecting the chance for free withdrawal treatment at a government hospital.

But at least there was no need for him to turn to crimes of violence to raise money for illegal drugs. And with legal narcotics available, there was less profit incentive for gangsters to start mass black market operations here.

He was taking advantage of Britain's system of treating addicts as patients rather than as criminals, a practice once denounced by former U.S. Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell as "the surrender approach."

There's a big question whether the British system coupd work in the United States, but evidence accumulates that it works tolerably well here, following some key revisions.

The number of addicts known to the government is declining. Perhaps more important, it is declining among the younger age groups.

Britain's drug situation pales by comparison to the U.S. problem. At its peak there were probably fewer than 4,000 addicts in this nation of 55 million, avainst perhaps 200,000 in New York City alone.

But the British addiction rate grew alarmingly over the past decade, calling the whole system into question and forcing some major changes.

The system was riddled with abuse. Rogue physicians privately overprescribed for registered addicts, who then sold their surplus to pay the rent or buy food, sometimes hooking a new young junkie.

A new law in 1968 limited the legal prescription of narcotics to government-run clinics. By 1969 the number of known addicts on hard drugs had dropped.

Part of the drop was due to a change in the method of recording addictions. The new system, in effect a census taken on the last day of the year, eliminated from that year's figures those addicts who had died, given up drugs, left the country or for any other reason had been deregistered. Previously these categories were listed as known addicts.

In the early days of the clinic system doctors were known to prescribe drugs for a new addict without even checking his arm for needle marks. An addict could give a urine sample to a "straight" friend, who could then quality for drug prescriptions.

The statements one can make in a rash moment when looked back upon are just simply too much. I mean I must have been bordering on the edge of a sun stroke or delerium of some kind had surely taken over my senses, for not anytime ago I can remember hearing myself say very plainly how I was ready for school to let out and summer vacation to start. Mad — I must have been mad! Whatever would prompt such a ridiculious sentence to ever leave one's lips if not insanity. Sure, it was a knock down dragout getting the fellas up in the morning, fed, clothed and out the door in time for school, but, then I had all those blessed hours in between to get my work done without any interruption from the younger generation. Now, I roll them out of bed so I can clean around them, still have to get them fed and clothed, but now, there is no peace at all. I think we must have the only house in town with wall to wall bickering. We are also now sporting a taxi driver & cab (me and my car), a restaurant (guess who the short order cook is), a janitor (me - me - me), and we also have a social secretary to keep track of all the engagements and activities that flourish (and I'll bet you can guess whose engagements they are not). We've taken up summer lawn mowing jobs which constitutes me running back and forth for gas, me running back and forth with broken down mowers and me running back and forth trying to get everyone to which lawn they should be that day. Believe me, it would have been just as cheap for me to have paid them to sit home and sure a heck of a lot easier. I am now going to make one more statement and brother this time it's for real, "Boy, will I ever - ever be glad when summer vacation is over and school starts again — whopeeee!!!"

Machines, Electricity Find Little Place In Amish Area

COLUMBIA, Mo. (AP) — The sun and the Amish often rise together and more often than not the sun will set on them at work in their fields, casting stark silhouettes across the freshly plowed rows.

A young man catches a brief moment's rest as he sits behind a plow. He and his horse contemplate digging the last furrow in a row of earth. They began the day together and they will finish it that way.

A farm machinery salesman wouldn't find any customers in an area of Boone County just north of Sturgeon. It is Amish country, where everything is done by man and original or need, where is our cross? Do you think I like freezing in a buggy when I could be in a car? W're not that different."

The Amish children north of Sturgeon attend their own schools through the 8th grade. German, history and religion are taught. Under Amish belief, education ends after the 8th grade because there is no need to continue it.

"Why learn about other people or other things when you have no intention of using them? Hochstetler asked. "We farm here. It's good work — there is no need for more education.

Asked if he fit the Amish image of sternness with children, Hochstetler said Amish youths are punished only when they need it.

"I guess you could say I'm stern. We believe children should be shown the right way. If they stray away from that way later we can't blame ourselves. We tried to show them what was right.

"We lose some to the city and other ways of life," he said. "Occasionally someone will want to come into the faith but they never last. We take them into our church but almost always they break away and leave."

Just then, Hochstetler's 82year-old father-in-law jogged across the backyard and up the stairs into the house.

"He's very spry for his age. He runs a little every day, believing that if you run some every day you'll always be able to run.

You never know what's around the next curve

Kirkpatrick Elected Veep

HERSHEY, Pa. — James C. Kirkpatrick, secretary of state of Missouri, has been elected vice president of the National Association of Secretaries of State.

A longtime Missouri newspaper editor and publisher, Kirkpatrick, remembered for changing Missouri's "Blue Book" to green, serves on the association's publications committee.

Kirkpatrick served last year as treasurer of the association.

If his bid for re-election as Missouri's secretary of state succeeds in November, Kirkpatrick will advance to organization's top post next summer.

Spain Favors Legal Service Access For All

FULTON — Attorney General candidate James Spain of Bloomfield told the Missouri Credit Union League that the objectives of consumerism could not be accomplished until everyone has access to quality legal services.

In a speech given Sunday at William Woods College, Spain said, "Legal fees are of small consequence to the rich, and there are legal aid programs for the poor. But, what about the thousands of Missouri families earning $6,000 to $15,000? Where do they go for help with their legal problems?"

As the system presently operates, middle income families and individuals are denied access to attorneys.

Spain outlined a number of possibilities for meeting the problem including lawyer referral services and federal income tax deductions for legal fees. He concluded that the problem could best be met through some form of voluntary group legal services program whereby individuals and families could prepay for legal assistance. Something analogous to group medical insurance might be devised, he suggested.

Sikeston Provides Support For Club

By CHARLES BRADY

CARUTHERSVILLE- Sometimes it takes a little outside help to get a good thing going and, in the case of the Caruthersville Kiwanis Club, that's exactly what happened.

Members of the Sikeston Kiwanis Club visited Caruthersville in 1938 and 1939 to see if there was any interest locally in the formation of a Kiwanis Club. On Sept. 20, 1939, J.A. Sutterfield, George W. Kirk, and L.M. Standley, all of Sikeston, visited the city again to canvass prospective members for a Kiwanis Club they hoped to organize. This time they found the interest they sought.

Officers for a Caruthersville Kiwanis Club, which was assured for the city when 26 business and professional men had signed a petition for a charter at the end of a meeting Oct. 11, 1939, were elected that evening with Walter Bernard named president.

Other officers elected for that first year were John White, vice president; Jack Moore, secretary; and Bob Mulliniks, treasurer. The board of directors included the officers as well as Bob Mehrle, Tom Markey, Noel Dean, Iverson Michie, Elmer Peal, Ralph Hutchison, and Gifford Edgerton.

The civic organization meets each Monday evening in the basement of the Methodist Church and the club is a member of the Mo-Kan-Ark Kiwanis District.

Current officers are Ralph Clayton, president; Joe Parkinson, president elect; Rev. Reggie Spooner, vice president; Tom Porter, secretary; and Tom Markey, treasurer.

Question Arises On Refuse Vote

CARUTHERSVILLE — The question of whether residents of Caruthersville, Hayti and Steele will be able to vote if a Pemiscot countywide election is called by the county court to establish a Pemiscot County Solid Waste Management District is only one problem that may be worked out this week.

Caruthersville Mayor Bill Inman said the mayors of the three cities and as well as the presiding judge of the county court plan to meet to "work out some bugs" in the proposed refuse-landfill system for the county.

The decision to plan a meeting of these officials was made when the city councils of Caruthersville, Steele, and Hayti met to discuss the proposed landfill system. The only things decided at that particular meeting was that the councils tentatively agreed to underwrite the capital expense to operate the system and D. J. Meredith, presiding judge of the county court, said he would plan to have the county court call for a special election to set up the district.

Meredith said that he wasn't sure whether citizens of the three cities could vote on the proposed distric. Inman echoed this statement saying "the district would be something like a water district setup and operated by the county and I'm not sure if the people in the three cities can vote on its establishment". However, Prosecuting Attorney Art Stephenson, although he said he too was not sure, said "I think anyone in the county can vote'.

Inman was asked four questions concerning the landfill proposal: Will it be less expensive to have the cities to furnish garbage pick-up trucks and crews and just pay for dumping each load at the landfill? Will it be cheaper for the authority which will be set up to operate the landfill? Will it be chaeper for the authority which will be set up to operate the landfill to buy equipment and furnish garbage pick-up service to all three towns for a fee per household? Will it be better for the towns to contract with a private contractor and have him to pick up the garbage and trash?

Inman answered "there is no way of knowing" which way is best but said these questions will be discussed at the meeting this week. He added that "we are working for the setting up of an authority which will operate the landfill to buy equipment and furnish garbage pick-up service to all three towns for a fee per household".

"The thing about a private contractor is if we have one, the people will have to be more disciplined than they are now in how they put their garbage out and we will have to pass some ordinances regarding that," the mayor said.

He said there is also no way of knowing how much each town would have to pay under the four possibilities listed above.

"There's no one here with experience in operating a landfill or its cost and in all the information we have received about it, there is not any two landfill systems that are alike," he comented.

Inman said Caruthersville is now spending around $40,000 on garbage disposal and Hayti around $17,000. He said he did not know what Steel was paying because there is no firm figure.

"I don't know how much more will be needed to operate a landfill system but it would be based on the cost of the system," he said.

He said other questions to be discussed at the meeting this week will be how much each household will pay and how to pay for the equipment to be used to operate the system.

It was discussed last Monday that each city charge $2.25 for garbage disposal but nothing was definitely decided.

Inman mentioned "we've got two to three months to work this out or we're going to be in trouble". According to the Environmental Protection Agency, Pemiscot County must have a suitable and acceptable disposal system in operation by September, 1972.

Arkansas Man Pays $26,000 For Used Car

MUSKOGEE, Okla. (AP) — An Arkansas traveler has paid $26,000 for a used car, and a 16year-old one at that.

Jess Odom's bid on a 1956 Rolls Royce Silver Wraith, once owned by British actor Laurence Harvey, was the highest of James C. Leake's rare auto auction conducted here Sunday. Leake, who owns television stations in Arkansas and Oklahoma, said it was the "top price paid in the U.S.A. for this body style Rolls."

Odom is the owner of Dogpatch, U.S.A. of Arkansas, and lives in Little Rock. He is opening an auto museum at Dogpatch and brought nine cars Sunday for a total of $59,550. He was the top spender.

But Odom said the rare Rolls may not always be in his museum. The car is in perfect condition and Odom intends to show it off.

Leake raised $363,182 from the sale of 74 of his autos in a seven-hour auction conducted by Sotheby, Parke-Bernet, of Los Angeles.

Edward Landrigan II, Ppresident of the firm and the auctioneer, said, "It was the largest most muccessful antique auto auction held in the United States and the largest ever by a single owner."

Leake's auto museum here can accommodate only 70 automobiles and he had 189 before the action. Only three that he placed for sale did not draw bids.

Odom was in earnest about his new auto museum at Dogpatch.

COOKING-UP with judy gazette

The introduction to my newest cookbook promises to keep the reader spellbound with a galley of facts about America's top dessert dessert fare ... PIES!

Well, I was able to put the volume down long enough to eat lunch, but it's sun and informative reading -- "Farm Journal's Complete Pie Cookbook."

Following are several selections, including a pastry recipe accounted for as infallible by my Arkansas Mon.

Oh , yes ... did you know that Greece is the homeland of pastry? And that the first American pies were mostly crust because pioneer women were forced to stretch scarce sweet ingredients ... and for those same corner-cutting reasons, early cooks made pies round!

One more thing ... surveys reveal the seven most popular pies to be in this order: apple, cherry, pumpkin, lemon, chocolate, pecan and coconut.

Cheers, everyone!

j.g.

HEIRLOOM PASTRY

5 cups flour
1 tsp. salt
2 cups shortening
¼ cup vinegar
½ cup water

Measure flour, salt and shortening into mixing bowl. Blend until mixture is size of small peas.

Add liguids and bind together.

Store in refrigerator for as long as necessary. Pastry will keep for weeks.

Makes 4 9-inch crusts.

CHOCOLATE CHEESE PIE

Heavenly, but serve small portions to the dieters at your table

9" Chocolate Graham Crust
1 (6 oz.) pkg. semisweet chocolate pieces
1 (8 oz.) pkg. cream cheese, softened
3/4 c. light brown sugar
1/8 tsp. salt
1 tsp. vanilla
2 eggs, separated
1 c. heavy cream, whipped

Melt chocolate over hot (not boiling) water; cool about 10 minutes.

Blend cream cheese, ½ c. sugar, salt and vanilla. Beat in egg yolks, one at a time. Beat in cooled chocolate. Blend well.

Beat egg whites until stiff but not dry. Gradually beat in ¼ c. sugar; beat until stiff and glossy.

Fold chocolate mixture into beaten whites. Fold in whipped cream.

Pour into chilled crust, reserving ¼ of mixture for decorating. Chill until filling sets slightly. With tapered spoon, drop reserved mixture in mounds over top of pie. Chill overnight. Makes 8 servings.

CHOCOLATE GRAHAM CRUST: Mix thoroughly 1½ c. graham cracker crumbs, ¼ c. brown sugar, 1/8 tsp. nutmeg, 1/3 c. melted butter or margarine and 1 square unsweetened chocolate, melted. Press into 9" pie pan. Chill until firm.

FRESH RHUBARB PIE

This rosy rhubarb pie has a fascinating, though subtle, orange taste

Pastry for 2-crust pie
1 1/3 c. sugar
1/3 c. sugar
1/3 c. flour
½ tsp. grated orange peel
1/8 tsp. salt
4 c. (½" pieces) rhubarb
2 tblsp. butter

Combine sugar, flour, orange peel and salt. Add to pink rhubarb.

Place in pastry-lined 9" pie pan and dot with butter

Bake in hot oven (425 degrees F.) 40 to 50 minutes, or until juice begins to bubble through vents and crust is golden brown. Partially cool.

Note: If your rhubarb is not the pink variety, add a few drops of red food color to filling. To eliminate peeling rhubarb, use tender, young stalks. The amount of sugar varies with the tartness of the rhubarb — from 1 1/3 c. to 2 c. Usually rhubarb is less tart early in the season.

JACK ANDERSON SAYS: Governor let PR take priority over rescues; used 3 of 5 rescue choppers to put on show; FBI, defense keep tabs on illegitimate kids

FIRE leveled the home of Gary Rodgers at 11 p.m. Tuesday in Salcedo. The only building saved was a chicken coop in the rear. The fire appeared to have started in the rear of the house.

McGovern Sweeps Four Democratic Primaries

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Sen. George McGovern captured the crucial California primary today to cap a four- primary sweep that takes him a long way toward winning the Democratic presidential nomination.

Though the race turned out to be closer than expected, the South Dakota senator won a clear victory over Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey in their battle for California's 271 delegates to the Democratic National Convention.

Along with victories in New Jersey, New Mexico and his native South Dakota, the triumph vaulted McGovern's delegate total past the 900 mark in his drive to reach the 1,509 needed to capture his party's presidential nomination.

Humphrey, however, appeared to have done well enough in California to stay in the race and encourage those Democratic party leaders and labor chieftains who have been cool to the McGovern candidaacy.

Even before it became clear that Humphrey's margin in populous Los Angeles County would be insufficient to overcome the hefty McGovern majorities in the northern part of the state and in San Diego, McGovern was claiming victory and saying it means he'll win the Democratic nomination.

With over half of the vote counted, McGovern had 47 per cent, Humphrey had 38 percent.

Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace, a write- in entry, ran third with 5 per cent, but his true total was unlikely to be known for several days. Six other candidates split the remaining ballots.

Before the California outcome was settled, McGovern had won the day's three other primaries.

He captured a solid majority of the 109 New Jersey delegates, swept the 17 of his native South Dakota without opposition and took New Mexico's first presidential primary in a tight race with Wallace that gave each nine delegates.

California, however, was the key place. Both McGovern and Humphrey had predicted the winner would capture the presidential nomination though Humphrey modified that in recent days as polls showed him far behind in the state.

The California vote count was delayed when a federal judge in San Francisco ordered polls kept open an extra three hours to handle delays caused by an unusually long local ballot. Secretary of State Edmund G. Brown Jr. then ordered the statewide tally held up until San Francisco polls closed.

A few votes were counted before Brown's order was received, mainly in the north where McGovern was running well, and then the tally stood still for more than two hours, until after 2 a.m. EDT.

As the tally started to mount, McGovern told reporters, "I realize there's nothing certain in politics, but I think these four victories probably set the stage for my victory in Miami Beach."

He said he planned to talk with Humphrey in the next few days, adding, "He and I know how to talk to each other on a man-to-man basis. We have a high regard for each other and I think something can be worked out."

U.S. Planes Strike 25 Miles From China

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. Air Force Jets wrecked a big North Vietnamese railroad marshalling yard and highway bridge less than 25 miles from the Chinese border, military spokesmen reported today.

The raid Tuesday was the closest to North Vietnam's northern frontier since the fullscale bombing campaign was resumed on April 6.

The bridge 10 miles southwest of Lang Son was knocked out with "smart" bombs guided to the target by laser light rays, the spokesmen said.

Another flight of Air Force Phantoms dropping laser bombs attacked the Bag Giang power plant 25 miles northeast of Hanoi for the second time in a week. The raid June 1 damaged the plant and its support buildings, spokesmen said, while the strikes Tuesday scored direct hits on the generator buildings and plant. But cloud cover prevented determination of the extent of damage, the spokesmen said.

The U.S. Command said U.S. pilots flew more than 270 strikes across North Vietnam Tuesday and destroyed or damaged five other bridges and 61 supply water craft.

Pilots from the carrier Saratoga reported destroying the east span of the Yen Lap railroad bridge 29 miles southeast of Hanoi and said they set fire to the Tieu Giao petroleum storage area 30 miles southeast of the North Vietnamese capital.

In South Vietnam, meanwhile, North Vietnamese forces made a series of attacks northwest of Saigon.

Troops of the North Vietnamese 7th Division attacked four South Vietnamese militia posts defending the district towns of Chu Chi, Trang Bang and Khiem Hanh on the Saigon River corridor, a key infiltration route. The attacks Tuesday were at points 25 to 40 miles northwest of Saigon.

Field reports said 42 North Vietnamese troops and seven militiamen were killed, and 67 South Vietnamese were wounded.

Field reports said 82 North Vietnamese and 12 South Vietnamese were killed and 91 government troops were wounded.

Fire Destroys Home

Fire, believed started by a faulty water heater, destroyed the Gary Rodgers home in Salcedo last night.

The fire was discovered about 11 p.m. in the kitchen by Rodgers who had gotten out of bed to get a bottle for his one- year- old daughter. Rodgers was able to get his wife and child and two visiting relatives out of the house before it was destroyed.

All the family managed to save were a chair, a television set and some articles of clothing.

Friends of the family announced this morning that they are seeking donations of used clothing, eating utensils, etc. to help the family get back on its feet. Donations may be made by contacting either Mildred Anditon, 471-7651, or Mrs. Rodgers at 471-8191.

A fireman with the Sikeston Fire Department said there wasn't much his unit could do to save the house. He said the home was over half- burned when the truck arrived.

He added there was no place to pump water from so firemen were forced to fall back upon the 500 gallons of water carried in the fire truck. That water was used to wet down a liquefied gas tank in front of the house to keep it from exploding.

The fire department was called out two other times yesterday. At 2:55 p.m. a barrel, still hot from burning refuse, set fire to a garbage truck in the senior high school parking lot. Damage was minor, according to firemen. The truck was owned by Paul Talbert, 204 William.

At 2:57 p.m. a carburetor backfire set fire to a pickup truck at 117 South Handy St. Only minor damage was done. The truck is owned by Henry Newman of 318 East Gladys.

Patterson Withdraws

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — Sen. J. F. Patterson, D-Caruthersville, has withdrawn as a candidate in the new 25th Senatorial District of extreme southeastern Missouri and thrown his support to Sen. Nelson B. Tinnin, D-Hornersville.

The only other candidate is Mayor Randell E. Ramsey of Parma, brother of New Madrid County Sheriff W. L. Ramsey Jr. Ramsey has the support of Gov. Warren E. Hearnes' political ally, Hal E. Hunter of New Madrid.

The winner of the Democratic nomination is assured of election since there are no Republican candidates.

Patterson, who will be 65 in September, is president pro tem of the Senate and for 10 years served as chairman of the powerful Senate Appropriations Committee, where he preached fiscal responsibility to his colleagues and urged them not to spend more than existing revenue.

He has also served as chairman of the Budget Control Committee, which must act on all bills calling for expenditure of $50,000 or more in new appropriations.

Patterson is in the construction business at Sikeston with his son and said the business is taking more and more of his time.

At one time he and the governor cooperated closely but in recent years they have differed on budgetary and political matters.

Patterson said he would remain active in politics and also would support Rep. Vic Downing, D-Bragg City, for re-election. He said he would endorse other candidates later and work for them.

Hess Ordered To Take Mental Exam

BENTON — Magistrate Judge Lloyd Briggs today issued an order from the state for Frank Louis Hess of Chaffee to undergo a mental examination at Farmington State Hospital. Hess is charged with the first degree murder of his wife Martha Marie Hess on May 12.

Timothy Raymond Niederkorn of Chaffee, route one, charged with stealing, was sentenced to six months in county jail and placed on two years probation. He is charged with stealing a roll of wire from Ronnie Garner, 121 Black St. in Chaffee.

Elmer Junior Penrose, Oran, Box 357, was sentenced to six months in the county jail and two years on probation for a charge of careless and imprudent driving.

The court appointed Ken Masterson as counsel for Marvin Dee Hedger and Fielding Potashnik counsel for Danny Hibbs. Both men are charge with escape from Deputy Sheriff Tom Dover while under arrest for burglary and stealing.

Larry Lindel Hale, Benton, Route One, was placed on probation for one year on condition he pass a driver's test for an unlicensed operator charge.

Trial date for Tim Alan Robbins, 220 Adam in Flat River, was reset for Jun 28.

Arrest Kidnap Suspect

EAST PRAIRIE — Edward Buddy Bonta, 26, of East Prairie was arrested today by Jefferson County Authorities after he allegedly kidnapped his former wife LaVerta on Sunday.

According to Mississippi County Authorities, the kidnaping took place in the small house where Mrs. Bonta lives behind the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Bill A. Zook, 401 Wilkinson.

Mrs. Bonta signed a complaint against her husband early Sunday because he would not leave her alone, authorities said. Between the time she left the station and arrived home, Bonta was arrested, charged and released on bond. Authorities say he then raced to his wife's home and was waiting inside when she arrived.

Mrs. Bonta claims he then forced her to the car at gun point and locked her in the trunk. He brought her back to town and released her after she told him her parents knew she was missing and he would be blamed if anything happened to her.

Chief Discusses Drug Problems

Arthur Bruce, chief of the Sikeston police department, spoke to the Kiwanis Club Tuesday night at the Ramada Inn about drug problems.

The Chief told the club that when school officials become suspicious they immediately call the police department and an investigation is made. The department also tries to track down all reports of drugs they receive.

Bruce introduced Lt. Leonard Campbell. who has attended a school on narcotics and lectures on drugs two to three times a week.

Campbell told of the many types of drugs and passed samples for the members to inspect.

He has several displays on drugs, donated by drug stores, and a narcotics identification guide.

"In spite of the fine educational program the police department is conducting, the use of drugs is on the increase", Campbell said, "but we will continue to do our best to try to decrease their usage."

Guests were Kiwanis Lt. Governor Joe Watson of East Prairie and city manager Jim Huff.

BANNER -- John L. Ford, 62, of Farmington was killed at 2:30 a.m. today in a one-car accident four miles west of Banner in Iron County.

According to the highway patrol, the driver of the car, Randell Gene Stephens, 26, of Farmington fell asleep at the wheel, lost control of the car and overturned twice.

Four people were injured in a two- car accident at 1:15 p.m. Tuesday in Gideon at the junction of highways 153 and 162.

Injured were Velva Lee Hargraves, 31, of Clarkton and her two children, Ricky, 10, and Scott, 7. All received cuts on the head. Also injured was William Marvin Northcut, 88, of Gideon. All were taken to Dunklin County Memorial Hospital in Kennett.

According to the patrol, the accident occurred when Northcut pulled in front of the car driven by Mrs. Hargraves. Northcut was arrested for failure to yield the right of way.

Community JuCo Planned In Area

MALDEN — Tentative plans for a Bootheel junior college lean toward a community college tied in with the three trade schools in New Madrid, Kennett and Malden.

Working with a $10,000 grant from the Danforth Foundation, the Bootheel Regional Planning Commission will plan the types of courses to be offered and the best methods and means to form a college in the vicinity, Phil Shelton, executive director of BRPC said.

A plan which has been successful in other sections of the country is the "college without walls." The laboratory, library and administrative offices are available, but the college courses are taken to the people, rather than a centralized campus location.

Shelton said the tie- in with the trade schools would create a curriculum leaning toward a vocational education program. This would be for people who want to better themselves while still holding job.

Research is underway to determine how to establish the college without a property tax. Rather, advantage would be taken of federal monies which could be made available.

Organizational meetings to discuss plans for the college are tentatively set next month. Persons with suggestions or inquiries concerning the college plans may contact the Bootheel Regional Planning Commission office in Malden by phoning 271-2422.

Frank Ware, charged with improper registration by failure to transfer and no operator's license, paid $10 fines on each charge plus $11 costs.

Judge T. J. Brown, Jr., dismissed a speeding charge at $5 costs to William K. Duncan.

Conservationists From Six Counties Plan Tax Project

NEW MADRID — Conservationists from the six- county area of Scott, New Madrid, Pemiscot, Dunklin, Stoddard and Mississippi met Tuesday night to organize and coordinate support for the proposed soft drink tax earmarked for an expanded conservation program for Missouri.

A statewide campaign, spearheaded by the Citizens Committee for Conservation and the Conservation Federation of Missouri, to secure over 90,000 signatures necessary to put a constitutional amendment on the ballot was achieved in March.

A one- cent sales tax on soft drinks is proposed to finance the program. The proposed tax has been labeled discriminatory against youngsters and the soft drink industry.

Supporters of the program deny the charges and claim the proposed program is to serve and benefit all Missourians and should be supported by all Missourians. Conservationists claim Missouri's conservation and recreation program has been supported almost entirely by the state's hunters and fishermen.

The expanded conservation and recreation program calls for the purchase of 50,000 acres of forest and leasing of 300,000 acres. More than 30 small lakes and 10 large ones, many near urban centers, and 80 inside urban areas would be created.

Emphasis in the program is placed on preservation of unspoiled areas such as prairies, caves and springs for future generations and facilities for campers, boaters, birdwatchers and picnickers, as well as hunters and fishermen.

The program is designed to preserve Missouri's natural resources, especially wildlife resources, while providing adequate outdoor recreational opportunities for all Missourians.

Ed Stegner of Jefferson City, executive director of Conservation Federation of Missouri; Bob Bright of Jefferson City, coordinator for Citizens Committee for Conservation; Charles Davidson of Jefferson City, assistant executive director of Conservation Federation of Missouri; Hal E. Hunter Jr., 10th District coordinator of CCC; and L. V. Stevens, New Madrid county coordinator of CCC, were amont the 25 attending the meeting at New Madrid Country Club.

A HERO HAS HIS DAY

It was a pleasant Sunday afternoon when over 2,000 people gathered in the civic auditorium of Gadsden to observe their annual "Loyalty Day" celebration, as has been their custom for over 25 years. An important part of the ceremony was when Mayor Lesley L. Gilliland presented an embossed citation to a 14 year old youth of nearby Ashland. The citation read:

"Veterans of Foreign Wars of the United States; April 30, 1972. To Billy Joe Zackery: The true test of a man is his willingness to sacrifice for the good of others. He achieves nobility when he risks his own life to save that of another.

"In unhesitatingly plunging in the cold and dangerous waters of Black Creek on March 11, 1972, to rescue Kiflin Myrick, a stranger to you, you have demonstrated the highest type of courage. Your willingness to get involved at a time when you could not have been blamed for standing by is a great credit to you and to those responsible for instilling in you a realization of man's responsibility to mankind.

"On behalf of the Veterans of Foreign Wars of the United States, I commend you on your courage and resourcefulness in time of emergency. Your example can well serve as an inspiration to others.

"(sighed) Sincerely, Joseph L. Vicities, Commander-in-Chief"

And that was only one of several awards to young Zackery, as he was applauded by others honored on the same occasion: Gold Star mothers and fathers; men and women of the armed forces; former prisoners of war; families of men who have given their lives in Vietnam; many local and state officials of the VFW, and many other dignitaries.

But don't expect news of the event to be given wide circulation by those, both here and abroad, who hate America.

Billy Joe Zachery is black. The young lady he pulled from the savage current — after another brave youth tried, but lost his life in the attempt — is white. And Gadsden, where this typical American ceremony took place, is in a state for which liberals have never found a kind word — Alabama.

She replied, "The complete instructions are on the handle. It says three hard pulls."

The husband took a look at the handle and found the instructions, "3 H.P."

24 HOURS
AT LE MANS

The Grand Prix automobile race at Le Mans, France, is the grand-daddy of motor sports. First held in 1906 -- five years before the debut of the Indianapolis 500 -- the Le Mans race is a 24-hour endurance test that sometimes resembles a demolition derby. Only 13 of the 49 cars that started the 1971 event officially crossed the finish line. The winning Porsche was described by one of its drivers as follows: "The brakes are completely dead. The gearbox didn't wc properly and we had to double-clutch at every shift fc the last 10 hours." Even so, the vehicle set a new course record of 5,335.313 kilometers (3, 302.6 miles), a distance equivalent to a coast-to-coast sprint across the United States.

It goes without saying that motor vehicle racing is a highly hazarous sport for drivers and, occasionally, spectators. Accelerating to speeds well above 200 m.p.h., the driver confronts death at every hairpin turn; he lives with the knowledge that one loose screw in his car or one slick spot on a track can betray him instantly. Accordingly, the Grand Prix Drivers Association has put heavy pressure on race organizers to install safety railings on their tracks.

Racing buffs unable to go to France will have the opportunity to watch this year's Le Mans race on television. A group of Latin American entrepreneurs plans a live telecast June 10 and 11 for closed-circuit showings in the United States, Canada, Mexico, Japan, Australia, Brazil, Argentina, and Venezuela. Tickets may cost as much as $20. On a per-hour basis, $20 compares favorably with admission prices for basebail and football. Still, it seems risky to ask that much to see at second hand an event that is almost as much of an endurance test for the viewer as for the driver.

LITIGATION,
ANYONE?

Law seems to have taken the place of engineering as a "glamor" career.

Whether or not Ralph Nader and the rise of consumer and environmental advocacy have anything to do with it, the number of persons applying for entrance to law schools has been doubling every five years.

In 1960, 24,000 people nationwide took the Law School Admission Test (LSAT). It is predicted that 135,000 will take that test in 1972.

"This intense interest in legal education has puzzled a lot of people," says Angus S. McSwain Jr., dean of Baylor University's School of Law, which has room for 150 new students a year and already in 1972 has received 1,500 applications.

"I can't help but think this trend will peak out either this year or the next and things will return to normal."

'BULLEN'

Recently, the interior minister of the state of North Rhine-Wesphalia asked people to think of a new nick-name for policemen to replace the common but impolite "Bullen" (meaning "bulls").

The voters came up with two leading alternatives: "Polli" and "Bulli." Eventually, "Polli" was selected by a jury and a popular song will be launched to familiarize the population with the name.

SAFETY ADVICE
FOR BIKE RIDERS

With summer weather and also school being out, there will be more bicycle riders on the streets and byways, so only a stronger emphasis on traffic safety will help prevent bicycle deaths and bicycle - related accidents.

Last year, 850 bicycle riders died in traffic accidents in the United States. Another 39,000 bicyclists were injured in motor vehicle - related accidents, says the National Safety Council.

You can avoid being a bicycle - accident statistic by knowing and abiding by all safety rules.

Drive on the right side of the street, in the same direction as traffic. Obey all the traffic signs and signals, using both hands to guide the bicycle except when signaling the intention to stop or turn. Carry all books or packages in an attached basket or carrier.

Never "hitch a ride" from another vehicle. Always ride single file, keeping a safe distance from the vehicle ahead. Be aware of other vehicles entering intersections as well as parked car doors being opened in your path.

Only one person should ride a bike, unless it is a tandem model or an adult bike with a special baby seat.

On entering traffic, always stop to look for other vehicles and pedestrians, allowing them the right-of-way. Walk the bicycle across busy intersections and all railroad crossings. When you make a left turn at busy intersections, walk the bike across the two streets and enter traffic again on the right side.

Watch out for slippery surfaces such as sand, gravel, or dirt collected along curbs. They may cause wheels to slip when turning or stopping.

Equip your bike with a horn or bell that can be heard 100 feet away; a front light visible from 500 feet; and a red rear reflector visible from 300 feet.

Learn the various parts of your bicycle and check to make sure they are in good working order. Have brakes and gear systems repaired only by trained bicycle mechanics.

Every bicycle rider must be aware of the responsibilities in traffic -- and, hopefully, this knowledge will result in fewer accidents, deaths and injuries this summer.

The evangelist was reaching the end of his emotionally charged sermon and had the congregation eating out of his hand.

"Will all of you who want to go to Heaven please stand up?"

All arose with the exception of one lone man.

"What! Do you mean you don't want to go to Heaven?" inquired the evangelist.

"Not right away," came the calm reply.

Combined employer-employee Social Security tax now is $811 (on up to $7,800 in wages) of which the worker pays half. Under current law the amount per worker will rise to $468 in 1972. By way of comparison, for a family earning $5,440 in 1972 with two children, would the Social Security tax be: less than the family's Federal income tax liability? Or more?

***

HIGHER MINIMUM WAGES

The house now has passed a Republican-sponsored bill that would raise the minimum wage from the present $1.60 per hour to $1.80 this year and to $2 an hour next year for an essimated five million nonfarm workers.

The bill as passed was something less than what the Democrats had sought. The Democrats would bave brought maids and other domestic workers, employes of state and local governments and other groups under the shelter of minimum wages.They also would have required mandatory time-and a half wages for overtime for such workers and would have required that women working in executive, administrative, professional and outside sales jobs be paid the same wages as men holding such positions.

The GOP proposal still is open to challenge, for the Senate Labor and Public Welfare Committee now is drafting a bill similar to the one which was proposed by the House Democrats and it is reported to have a good chance of passage in the Senate. This presages a difficult fight in conference committee.

So higher wages appear almost certain, the only remaining question being how much higher the minimum will be.

An increase in the minimum is needed.The full $2 an hour increase next year still will only bring the annual income of affected workers just a shade above the upper limit of what the federal government considers the poverty level for an urban family of four.

It is difficult for anyone to argue that those who are receiving welfare should go to work if the wages they are to receive are below the poverty level.

But there can be negative effects of such an increase too. Some employers who have been keeping on marginally capable workers may be inclined to drop them if they have to pay higher wages. Others may seek ways to eliminate help by mechanization of some work. And the increases in minimums undoubtedly will result in demands for higher wages by those workers who now are earning just above the minimum.

However, those are problems which need to be approached by other means than wage floors. For many, the need is a stimulation of the overall economy, more job training opportunities and welfare reforms. This need also is evident in the reports on employment and unemployment which are issued each month in Washington. They show that opportunities and earnings of those who are qualified have been rising while the opportunities and earnings of the less qualified have been remaining static.

Representative John H. Dent (D-Pa.), who was the chief sponsor of the bill which the House rejected through a coalition of Republican and Southern Democratic votes, promises than in conference "we will write the kind of legislation that will provide the greatest good for the greatest number." Nobody can quarrel with that.

VIOLENCE IN AMERICA AND TV

The National Commission on the Causes and Prevention of Violence, headed by Dr. Milton Eisenhower, has turned up the following facts:

1. The average American between his second and 65th year spends 3000 entire days watching television. That is almost nine years of his life.

2. By the time a 6 year old child enters kindergarten he has spent more time learning about life from the family TV set than the average student in a liberal arts program spends in his four years of college attendance.

3. Based on a recent average week of TV programming,an incident of violence is enacted every 14 minutes and a killing every 45 minutes.

Employers have handled — or at least tolerated — problem-drinking employees. Special programs have been devised, recognized and implemented as ways to cope with drinking and working. The costs of "recovery" are a good investment, especially for a valued employee. These programs work and their value has been documented.

In view of our relative success with alcoholism, it is inconceivable that the "find 'em and fire 'em" attitude toward drug-using employees has caught on in as many places as it has. The "drugs are illegal" argument does not justify this policy. Dismissal creates more problems than it solves. Those affected are back in the job pool for some other company to hire or become a social and economic drain on the community. The company is faced with economic loss through retraining, a general morale problem, and a conscience problem if it is sensitive to the social needs of the plant community. All of the successful approaches toward the problem drinker are applicable toward drug users. The problems are not the same, but a willingness on the part of society to see both as health problems is the biggest hurdle in responding to drug use.

MADNESS IN ROME

Pope Paul VI, commenting on the work of a vandal who inflicted senseless damage on the statue Pieta in St. Peter's Basilica, said: "Sheer madness. Why such an act to a work that belongs to all humanity?" Pope Paul has asked a good question. It could be repeated all over the world. When the windows in a home in Wyoming, or London, or Mexico City or Tokyo are smashed, the owners of those windows feel a sense of outrage and helplessness. True the windows don't have the historical symbol of faith and the tradition of the Pieta, the Mother Mary holding the lifeless body of Christ, but those windows were a part of the home and the lives of people who nourish the faith of the Church, be it Christian or Jewish or Shinto or whatever.

Vandalism, like wanton assaults upon persons, has become all too commonplace all over the world. Victims and insurance agencies alike will attest to that fact. It matters little if the motivation is criminal, lunatic or childish pranks. The damage still is a loss to the owner.The family of a prankish child and the police and the courts can do much to correct the evils of vandalism. The permissive attitudes of people in many countries during the last 12 years have contributed to lawlessness, and that includes acts of vandalism. A check of police blotters in cities in the U.S. will verify the fact that there has been a heavy increase in vandal activities.

Experts believe the Pieta can be restored. Christianity will rejoice world-wide when the restoration is done. The work will rightfully be regarded as a triumph over evil. Vandalism is an evil and it will be subdued only when the evil in the hearts of men is cast aside. Then the Pieta will have an even greater meaning.

NEW YORK (AP) — My two teen-agers are home from their first year at college, neither much the worse from their initial exposure to the throes of higher education.

Each has gained something from the experience, but on the whole I would say that Lady Dottie, our 14-year-old cat, benefited more than my daughter Tracy Ann, who will be 19 this month.

They were both students at Windham, a small coed college idyllically situated in the green hills of Putney, Vt.

To a middle-aged adult such as myself, who got a little lost sometimes while attending a large Midwestern state university, Windham is the post card image of what a small modern, progressive college should look like.

In its pleasant atmosphere Lady Dottie flourished mightily. Although she cut every class and set a perfect nonattendance record, I would say she learned more than any other freshman at the place this year.

She has returned an accomplished woman of the world, completely at home in drawing room, field or forest. Roaming the Vermont woodlands has given her a new confidence in herself. She is thin and beautiful and imperious - and somewhat annoyed at being forced to return to the tame indoor city life of her youth.

"I guess that Lady Dottie got more out of college than I did," Tracy said. "She's hardly afraid of anything anymore. She's popular with the students, she has fought and whipped two dogs, and made friends with two more. She likes it up there."

But Lady Dottie didn't go to hell as a result of the freedoms that modern colleges now allow. She never learned to smoke a reefer, and she turned an ever deaf ear to the midnight invitations of Vermont's moon-influenced amorous tomcats. She remains as chaste as the day she left the veterinarian's hospital years ago, and that's about as chaste as a cat can get.

As to my other teenager - Tracy Ann - college has had a rather mixed impact so far.

"I didn't learn as much from books as I did from the people there," she said. "The first semester I found it difficult to get adjusted to life in a dormitory. Whenever you wanted to study or just be alone, there were always a dozen people in your room."

Things got better the second semester, but Tracy's grades were more dismal than heartening. Now, like thousands of other restless students, her age, she says she would like to take a year off before going back to college "so I can find myself."

"I'd like either just to roam around Europe or get a day job here and take acting lessons at night. I still don't know whether I want to be a veterinarian or an actress."

She is lucky to have a summer mailroom job that pays her $96 a week, $19 more than her father earned as a night city editor in New York in 1942.

"Don't try to fly before you have learned how to walk well," I caution her. The thought of her becoming a dropout chills my heart.

If Papa has his way - but he rarely does - come September both my teen-agers will go back to college, paw in hand, hand in paw.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

By Jack Anderson

WASHINGTON — When the Buffalo Creek dam burst last February, 21 million cubic feet of water, coal sludge and mud engulfed 16 West Viriginia communities with a force greater than that of Niagara Falls.

At least 118 persons were drowned or crushed to death that rainy Saturday and some 5,000 others were made homeless. At first, rescue work was seriously impaired because roads were blocked and the weather grounded aircraft.

By next morning, skies had cleared enough for helicopters to begin rescue and evacuation work. Five large military rescue helicopters, all assigned to the West Virginia Air National Guard, swung into action.

Only two, however, were given the urgent task of bringing in fresh water and evacuating survivors. The other three were commandeered by Gov. Arch Moore to carry him and two planeloads of bigwigs and newsmen to the scene.

The governor's arrival was carefully orchestrated. The press planes landed ahead of him him so the TV crews could set up to film Moore as he stepped out to inspect the damage.

In fact, the press got two chances to photograph the governor arriving at the scene. First, the choppers set down at a coal company air strip above the site of the flood and later at a hospital in the nearby town of Man.

It is impossible to say whether any lives could have been saved had Moore not taken over the three rescue helicopters that day. But we have spoken to members of the rescue team who believe speedier assistance might have cut the death toll.

Several of the chopper pilots are known to have been extremely upset because, after they landed at Man, Moore went off -- with the cameramen in tow -- to tour the area by car. The helicopters were simply left to await his return.

By mid-afternoon, several pilots decided to begin making evacuation trips into the devastated valley on their own. They were able to complete a few missions before the governor returned to be ferried back to Charleston.

The nightly TV news that grim Sunday was filled with the films of Arch Moore strutting about the scene of the disaster, acting concerned.

Reached by my associate Brit Hume, Governor Moore insisted his party only consisted of essential personnel. The newsmen, he said, were an afterthought. He acknowledged, however, that his party included two bodyguards and his press secretary.

ILLEGITIMATE RECORDS

Most of the nation's laws no longer discriminate against children born out of wedlock. But those upholders of law and order, the FBI and the Defense Department, keep careful tabs on illegitimacy.

Small wonder, therefore, that the Defense Department also notes such facts in its security clearance investigations. One such file in our possession prominently records that the young servicemen was "Borned (sic) OUT of Wedlock."

TEEN—AGE TALENT

Teen-agers are often accused by their grumping elders of spending more time with pot, pop records and parties than with serious studying. But two typical high school scientific projects sent in to us tell just the opposite story.

To show the effort of mercury pollution on living things, Cynde Hirschtick, a ninth-grader from Chicago, treated radish seeds with mercury. Even lightly bathed seeds failed to grow.

In Huntley, Minn., Mark Seetin, a high school senior, exposed fruit flies to color television in 1969 and found they suffered weird deformations. The determined Seetin, now in college, has kept up his experiments in hopes of warning those with older model TVs of radiation dangers and of forcing makers of newer models to do more research.

HARTKE'S HANDOUT

Sen. Vance Hartke, D-Ind., and other friends of the railroads and big truckers on Capitol Hill are trying to sneak through a bill that could cost the taxpayers more than $5 billion.

Called the Surface Transportation Act of 1972, the legislation is so full of windfalls for the railroads, bus lines and truckers that Ralph Nader's transportation experts call it the worst such bill they have ever seen. It is now pending in Hartke's own Senate Transportation subcommittee.

Some industries which stand to profit heartily from the bill, including the freight forwarders, have helped out Hartke financially in the past. The Teamsters, who would benefit indirectly, also have been staunch Hartke allies.

Masterminding the lobbying on behalf of the Association of American Railroads is ex-Sen. George Smathers, D-Fla., who, in his day was one of Congress's most talented persuaders.

The railroads have also called in former astronaut Wally Schirra to do broadcast commercials and thus give the lobbying further respectability.

The bill would set up a $5 billion fund under the Secretary of the Treasury. The money could then be loaned for 15 years at token interest. A single carrier, furthermore, could borrow as much as $750 million.

One of the many loopholes is in the definition of "loan". The "loans" could concievably be written off as gifts. In any case, they would not have to be paid back until 15 years after completion of a project, thus allowing a clever company to delay repayment almost indefinitely.

The bill would also permit railroads to virtually dictate which routes they want to abandon with only 45 days notice. This could mean financial chaos to small businesses, rural communities and shippers.

Finally, Hartke has built a huge tax loophole into the measure. It would give the surface transportation industry about $120 million a year in tax credits and $20 million in depreciation bonanza.

Hartke insists that he is offering the bill only to open up debate on it and not because he wants every clause enacted.

Court To Rule On How States Finance Schools

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court today agreed to rule on the way all states except Hawaii finance their public schools.

Acting on an appeal by Texas, the court said it would review next term a ruling by a three-judge federal court in San Antonio that the current property tax system disadvantages the poor and is unconstitutional.

Thirty states lined up with Texas in seeking review. But four of their governors backed the district court.

Eventually, the case may rival in importance the 1954 Brown vs. Board of Education suit that led to the desegregation of schools in Southern and border states.

In every state except Hawaii, public-school financing is based to a large degree on the local property tax. Though the states and federal government provide additional funds, the kind of education a child receives is related directly to the tax revenue from property in his district.

In other actions today, the court:

—Strengthened the Federal Communications Commission's authority to regulate cable television with a ruling that the FCC has power to order community antenna television operators to originate some of their own programming.

—Ruled that the Interstate Commerce Commission has the right to impose rules for the return of freight cars on all the nation's railroads.

Wants PSC To Settle Disputes

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — Marvin E. Jones, chairman, said today the state Public Service Commission should have the authority to settle territorial disputes between rural electric cooperatives and private utilities.

In a speech prepared for the Missouri Electric Cooperative Managers Association he said the public cannot be served properly if there is competition between cooperatives and private utilities in the same area.

"The object of the proposed legislation for regulation of cooperatives is to ensure adequate, safe service for the public at reasonable rates," he said.

"It is generally understood that the major reason this legislation failed to be approved in the last session of the General Assembly was due to the differences between private utilities and cooperatives over the issue of service area."

Raise FCC Control Over CATV

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court strengthened the Federal Communication Commission's authority to regulate cable television with a ruling today that the FCC has authority to order CATV operators to originate some of their own programming.

The court ruled 5-4 to overturn a decision by the U.S. Circuit Court in St. Louis that the FCC had overstepped its authority. The challenge to the FCC ruling had been brought by Midwest Video Corp. which operates cable television systems in Missouri, New Mexico and Texas.

Such systemp capture TV and radio signals and carry them by microwave or coaxial cables into homes, most in communities with poor reception for direct signals.

The FCC ordered in 1969 that CATV systems with more than 3,500 subscribers must be able to present programs other than automated services.

What's The Law?

States Can Ban Sale Of Cigarettes

By Jack Strauss, LL.B.

Sidney was in the business of selling cigarettes and was raking in the profits with no butts about it. Then, a state law was passed that prohibited the importation of cigarettes and Sidney tearfully envisioned his profits going up in smoke.

Pulling himself together, however, Sidney decided to ignore such a revolting possibility by ignoring the anti-cigarette law and continued business as usual.

The result? It didn't take long before the gendarmes lowered the boom on him and Sidney found himself in court charged with being a law breaker.

"I can't be convicted of breaking that law," he protested to the judge. "It's both illegal and unenforceable. Under the interstate commerce clause of the United States Constitution, states can't interfere with the importation of legitimate articles of trade from one state to another. And, as an article of trade, cigarettes couldn't be more legitimate if they were the product of a marriage."

"No, they aren't, retorted the prosecuting attorney. "Tobacco is a nauseating plant consumed by only two creatures, a large green worm and man. The worm doesn't know any better and man should. Since he doesn't, we have a right to protect him."

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you hold that the anticigarette law is an unconstitutional interference with the interstate commerce clause?

This is how the judge ruled: NO! The judge held that under a state's police power, a state has the authority to prohibit the importation and sale of articles that are unfit for the use of its citizens. And, in this case, concluded the judge, cigarettes are harmful and never beneficial. Consequently, the importation and sale of cigarettes can be prohibited by a state. (Based on an 1898 Tennessee Supreme Court Decision).

Matter Of GOP Concern

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. to (AP) — A spat in the Republican camp over office space last week has caused concern for 34 GOP candidates for the Missouri House of Representatives.

Gerry Durnell of Springfield said he and 33 other House candidates want a meeting of all Republican candidates for the House to get matters cleared up.

The flareup began last week when Rep. Les Langsford, R-Springfield, chairman of "82 in "72", accused House Minority Leader John T. Russell, R-Lebanon, of turning over the organization's offices

A letter from Durnell to Langsford was hand delivered today at the capitol press room by a Republican state employe.

Durnell's letter asks what the fate of "82 in "72" holds in view of the loss of its headquarters which, he said, candidates understood would be maintained through November. The organization is an effort to elect a Republican in this area to the Democratic-dominated House.

"We recognize that this is the best year in recent times to achieve a Republican majority in the Missouri House of representatives," Durnell wrote. "We further believe that it is in the best interest of our own candidacies not to align ourselves as a group with any candidate for governor prior to the primary election.

"The recent take-over of our headquarters contradicts this intention and stands to shift the now equitable balance of the special gubernatorial candidates."

Russell said last week that the "82 in '72" organization had not been staffed for some time and the office was no longer needed.

TV And Radio Networks Want Support For Children's Programs

NEW YORK (AP) — Lester Cooper is the executive producer, creator and writer of ABC's award-winning Sunday morning children's show, "Make A Wish." He is proud of the product but is getting impatient about the blanket criticism of children's programs.

"The only way television—network television—can continue to do something good in this area is to have people out there say that there is something good," Cooper said. "Dammit, don't keep telling me how bad television is: look at it and see if you can't find something good. It's there."

"We had been doing 'Discovery' and it was a good show but the kids grew up with it and we found we were reaching too old an audience," Cooper said. "We wanted a new concept for the ones between 6 and 12.

Cooper and his staff came up with a form involving everything from quick cuts from one subject to another in "LaughIn" style, to animation and even music.

"We move fast and we don't stop to explain," he said. "The younger ones enjoy the visual part and the others get it or they don't. I remember writing one show about flying and at one point I mentioned Icarus. I just said he had wax wings and flew too close to the sun so they melted. I only hope that sometime Icarus may be mentioned and some kid who saw the show will say 'Oh, oh, I know something about that,' and be interested to know more."

For next season's 32 shows, Cooper has picked subjects from migratory patterns of deer to the shape of trains of the future.

The producer has three teenagers of his own and believes youngsters today are particular challenges to their parents "because the world has changed and so have attitudes."

"Kids have a right to ask questions now," Cooper said. "I tell my boy he cannot dye his bicycle at night. He immediately asks me why I got him a light to put on it. That's hard to answer.

"The main point I'm trying to make," he summed up, "is that the networks are willing to do good children's programs. But we need support. Unless we get it, what's the point of trying to do it?"

You won't find any flies in your soup these days—they're all out on the patio enjoying the barbecue.

SENATE PASSES BILL TO KEEP POISONOUS CHEMICALS OFF MARKET; insure proper regulation of OUT OF ENVIRONMENT chemical substances.

WASHINGTON, D.C. – By a vote of 77 to 0 a bill which gives the Senate has passed for the first time would provide Environmental Protection Agency to regulate the commercial marketing of chemical substances that could be hazardous to human health and the environment.

This legislation would establish the policy that all new and certain existing chemical substances be tested for their effects on man and the environment; also that the testing would be responsibility of those who produce the chemicals.

The Administrator of EPA could require manufacturers of certain chemicals to test, monitor their products, then furnish EPA with the results.

Numerous new home and industrial chemicals would be subject to pre-market testing by EPA 90 days prior to commercial production of the substance.

In addition, the Administrator could order the testing of existing substances which appear to pose an unreasonable threat to human health or the environment.

During the testing of existing substances, the Administrator would have the authority to restrict their use or distribution. He could ask United States District Court to restrain use or distribution of any substances which he believed poses an imminent threat to either health or the environment.

Individual citizens also could assist in enforcement of this proposed legislation through and even music.

Blackman-Nowell Vows Exchanged

Two spiral candelabras flanking an arched brass candelabrum with lighted pink tapers formed the background for the wedding of Miss Connie L. Nowell to Roger G. Blackman May 26 at 8 p.m. in the First United Methodist church.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bob C. Nowell, Sikeston and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Blackman of Bertrand.

A brass arch trimmed in boxwood and a white and gold kneeling bench formed the foreground of the altar. The aisle was lined with hurricane lamps, greenery and pink satin bows.

Four trees of pink candles and greenery and two white pedestals and grecian urns filled with greenery completed the setting for the double ring ceremony performed by the Rev. Archie Holt of Oran.

Mrs. David Burns of Morehouse, organist, presented prenuptial selections after which Kevin Nowell, brother of the bride, and Stuart Boswell of Aurora, Ill., cousin of the bride, lighted the altar tapers.

Following the vows the bride and groom approached the altar, extinguished two candles and lighted one together as a symbol of their unity. As the soloist sang, "We've Only Just Begun", the wedding party departed from the sanctuary.

The bride's hair was adorned with clusters of pink rosebuds and baby's breath. She carried a cascade bouquet of white daisy pom poms and pink roses with white baby's breath and greenery of ivy.

The bride completed her attire in the tradition of something old and something new. She wore a diamond heart shaped necklace given to her as a wedding gift from the groom. She also wore a gold heirloom bracelet which had been given to her great grandmother as an engagement present by her great grandfather.

Mrs. Roger Blackman

Miss Vicki Schindler of Morehouse was maid of honor and Mrs. Pam Blackman, sister-in-law of the groom, was the matron of honor.

The attendants wore identical floor length dresses of pink and white gingham check, flocked with white daisies. Their dresses were accented with a bibbed bodice, stand up collar, full sleeves and a bottom ruffle. A self belt at the bodice featured a tailored bow at the back. They wore pink picture hats with pink daisies circling the crown. They carried white baskets of pink and white daisies with baby's breath and ivy.

Leo Blackman, brother of the groom, was best man. Roger Tolliver was groomsman. Terry Nowell, brother of the bride, and Sidney Stauffer, cousin of the groom, were ushers.

The mother of the bride wore an aqua dress trimmed at the throat, belt and hemline with white lace. The groom's mother wore a pink and gray long sleeved dress. Both mothers wore white orchids.

A reception was held immediately after the ceremony in Epworth Hall. Mrs. Robert Schwab and Mrs. Rex Lambert were hostesses. Serving were Judy Hurley of Charleston, Mrs. Roger Tolliver, Mrs. Ronnie Hurley and Mrs. Steve Ledbetter of Bertrand, sister of the groom.

The guest book table was presided over by Mrs. Donald Metz of Bloomfield. Missy Nowell of New Madrid, cousin of the bride, and Amy Blackman, niece of the groom, distributed rice bags. They all wore pink dresses.

Background for the serving table was white lattice entwined with ivy and pink daisies. The table was decorated with two silver candelabra filled with pink and white daisies and ivy.

The bride's cake was trimmed with pink flowers.

A late evening buffet was held on the patio at the home of the bride's parents. Family and friends were seated poolside. Torches and candles were scattered throughout the yard. The serving table was laden with candles and a watermelon fruit basket as a centerpiece.

Mr. and Mrs. Ira Throop of New Madrid, Mr. and Mrs. Clyde R. Boswell of Long Beach, Calif., grandparents of the bride, and C. E. Stauffer of Charleston, grandfather of the groom, attended the wedding.

Out of town guests attending were Mr. and Mrs. Bill Boswell, Mrs. Lynn Thompson, Mrs. Don Neal, Mr. and Mrs. Jeff Boswell, Scott Mesbach, Judy Bond and Mr. and Mrs. Kenny Cantrell, all of Cape Girardeau.

Others included:

Mr. and Mrs. N. G. Nowell and children, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Halford and children, Mrs. Ernest Carpenter, Mr. and Mrs. Ken Cope and Jane Dawson, all of New Madrid.

Mr. and Mrs. Cletus Haas, Mrs. Sally Poyner and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Ledbetter, all of Charleston.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Jones of Kennett; Elaine Roberts of St. Louis; Mr. and Mrs. Jim Blackman of East Prairie; Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Woods and Mr. and Mrs. Tommy Woods of Bertrand; Mr. and Mrs. Mike Haas of Benton.

Mr. and Mrs. Donald Metz of Bloomfield; Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Schindler of Morehouse; Dave Collier of Memphis; David Shy of Chaffee and Clarence Myers of St. Genevieve.

The groom is a graduate of Sikeston High School and attended Southeast Missouri State College. He is employed at Malone Hyde.

R FOR TODAY

From David Shy Rph.

The U. S. Department of Agriculture has found that oil crushed from orange skins interfers with the growth of bacteria. He and his colleagues added orange oil to suspensions of bacteria - - all capable of causing serious infection. Within two days the growth of the germs was 90 per cent -- and in some cases 100 per cent -- inhibited. U.S.D.A. scientists now predict that orange oil added to foods; milk, for instance -- will make them keep much longer.

Ann Landers

Aries Boyfriend Has Hot Temper

Dear Ann Landers: My ex-boyfriend is involved with my mother. The reason he is my ex is because he didn't treat me right and I told him to get lost.

My mother is in her late 30's and divorced. My ex-boyfriend is 19. When we were dating he used to tell Mom his troubles and she gave him advice. I thought when we broke up that would be the end of it but he still comes over to see Mom. I can't stand to be around them. I guess it was pretty dumb of me not to notice there was more between them than "motherly advice."

The guy has spent time in a mental hospital and I know he's a little off but I thought my mother had more sense than to fool around with a kid young enough to be her son. What should I do? It's beginning to get to me. --Wit's End.

Dear Wit's: You can do nothing about your mother's company. But if you can't stand to be around them, there IS something you can do about that. When the ex shows up, make yourself scarce.

Dear Ann Landers: I am an average middle-class woman with a nice husband. He has a small business, we own a modest home and have no big worries. Our only child is six years old and I am pretty certain we will not have more children. The question I am writing about may sound peculiar but I need an answer. If something should happen to both my husband and me, is there a law that says an orphaned child must be raised by a relative? I have one living parent and my husband has one also. Neither would be a suitable guardian for our child. My sisters have not done a very good job with their children and my husband's sister has four kids she didn't want and it shows.

Unfortunately we did not name godparents when our child was born. Is it too late to do so? Would godparents be the answer? Please give me some guidance. This thing has been preying on my mind for over a year. --- Battle Creek.

Dear B.C.: Godparents have no legal obligations. My advice is to make a choice, discuss it with whomever you've chosen and learn if they are willing to accept the responsibility. If so, make a will and state your wishes in writing. In the absence of a will, your child would probably be placed in the home of relatives.

Dear Ann Landers: I am 18 years of age and a recording artist with a trio. My career is a real groove so that's not the problem. What I am writing about is my boyfriend. Clyde and I have been going together for two years and I love him more than anybody in the whole world. The trouble is that Clyde is an Aries -- Very aggressive, jealous, and likes to boss me around. He has a hot temper and punches me whenever I say something he doesn't like. This interferes with my public appearances because stage make-up can cover the black and blue marks only so much.

I should tell you that I lie to him sometimes, not to hide anything but because I figure what he doesn't know can't hurt him, or me. When he finds out I haven't told him the truth he gets like wild. The problem is that I can't live WITH him and I can't live without him. Please don't tell me to find somebody else. Clyde is perfect except for the few little faults I've mentioned. What should I do? --Chickadee Dotsy

Dear Chick: You don't want advice. You've already told me what NOT to tell you. You just wanted to write a letter --- and now that you've written it I hope you feel better.

The aldermen passed an ordinance accepting the Ray White subdivision number two consisting of 52 lots.

The city will advertise for bids for the extension of two sewer lines in the south part of town.

It was reported that the city has moved a 2,000- foot high pressure gas line west of town on route U where the state highway department is relocating part of the highway. This was done at one- fourth the cost of what it could be contracted for.

"Things Are Looking Up"

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The St. Louis Cardinals and San Francisco Giants are 14½ games out of first place, with just one major difference.

Cards Manager Red Schoendienst says things are looking up.

"We're starting to get some timely hits, and we're hitting the ball where they ain't," the St. Louis manager said Tuesday night after a 5-2 victory over the Giants.

"We had runners on base and couldn't get them in. The same old story," said Giants Manager Charlie Fox, whose team has lost four straight games.

San Francisco has a miserable 6-24 record at home for the baseball season and has been last in the National League's Western Division since May 2. The Cardinals recently climbed to fifth in the Eastern Division.

Fox, after spending the weekend in a hospital because of kidney stones, spent his stopper, Steve Stone, against St. Louis.

"He went to the well once too often with his breaking ball," said Joe Torre, who hit a bases-empty home run off Stone, 3-5, in the sixth inning.

Ted Simmons broke a 2-2 tie in the eighth with a two-run double off another breaking pitch. It gave Simmons a 12-game hitting streak and pitcher Rick Wise, 5-5, a victory.

The homer by Torre was the first earned run in 19 -23 innings off Stone, who went into the game with three straight complete games victories.

Royals Now KC-Omaha Kings

KANSAS CITY (AP) — The Cincinnati Royals of the National Basketball Association are now officially the Kansas CityOmaha Kings.

Joe Axelson, the team's general manager, made the announcement of the new nickname Friday night, following a month-long contest.

The Kings will play 26 games in Kansas City's Municipal Auditorium next season and 15 in Omaha's Civic Auditorium.

KC Stadium Royaless

KANSAS CITY (AP) — There will be no baseball in the Harry S. Truman sports complex this season.

The Kansas City Royals announced Tuesday they have abandoned the idea of playing in their big new stadium in 1972.

Attorney Phil Koury, a spokesman for Royals owner Ewing Kauffman, said, "Our goal was that we would accept the stadium only in the event the public would find it both beautiful and safe."

Koury admitted the stadium could be used this season but added:

"It would mean playing in a stadium lacking in certain conveniences to the public, in certain elements of safety and, above all, lacking in the beauty that will be so apparent when the stadium is completed."

The Royals will pay only $180,000 in rent this year by not using the stadium. The rent would be $400,000 if they played only one game.

The Kansas City Chiefs plan to occupy the complex's football stadium next season. They play their first exhibition game Aug. 12.

Roberts Heads Padre Draft

NEW YORK (AP) — The Los Angeles Dodgers stepped into the batter's box today to grab off the No. 1 pick in the secondary phase of baseball's free agent draft after the San Diego Padres gave unknown Dave Roberts his first push toward a major league career.

Roberts, a junior third baseman at the University of Oregon, was made the No. 1 pick in the regular phase as the draft began Tu esday becoming only the second collegian in the 15-year history of the selection process to be tabbed a No. 1 choice.

The other collegian selected No. 1 was outfielder Rick Monday, drafted out of Arizona State by the Oakland A's in 1965 and now a regular with the Chicago Cubs.

Roberts offers impressive credentials in his bid for a major league berth, including a .410 batting average at Oregon and a homer and two singles in five at-bats in an exhibition game against the Philadelphia Phillies' Eugene, Ore., farm club.

Despite the fact he's a junior, he is ready to begin starting up the ladder.

The Padres announced Tuesday night that they had signed Roberts at his home in Corvallis, Ore. Terms of the contract were not announced.

The Padres said Roberts would be in a San Diego uniform for their twi-night doubleheader at home against the Pittsburgh Pirates Wednesday.

Any players drafted in the regular phase who do not sign go back into the pool and can be drafted again the following year. It is players previously drafted who did not sign who will be up for grabs in today's secondary phase.

Two players who came out of last year's secondary phase are pitchers Pete Broberg of Texas and Burt Hooton of the Chicago Cubs, who earlier this season pitched a no-hitter.

The order of draft following Los Angeles was: Cleveland, New York Mets, Texas, San Diego, California, Houston, Kansas City, Cincinnatti, Milwaukee, Atlanta, Detroit, Montreal, New York Yankees, Chicago Cubs, Chicago White Sox, Philadelphia, Minnesota, San Francisco, Boston, St. Louis, Baltimore, Pittsburgh and Oakland.

Cards Sign Crane

ST. LOUIS — Defensive end Gary Crane and running back Silas McKinnie, both with prior professional football experience, have signed as free agents with the football Cardinals, it was announced today.

Crane, 26, was a 14th-round draft choice of Denver in 1969 and played with the Broncos that season before spending the next two years in the U. S. Army at Fort Sill, Okla. The 6-4, 250-pounder was a member of the Big Red All-Stars basketball team during the winter.

Born in Dexter where he was an all-state prep star, Crane was a three-sports standout at Arkansas State University, lettering as a defensive end and tight end in football and also playing baseball and baseball.

McKinnie, also 26, played the last four years with the Saskatchewan Roughriders of the Canadian Football League.

What Did Giants Say to Mays: 'Goodby' or 'Good Riddance'?

By MURRAY OLDERMAN

SAN FRANCISCO—(NEA)—A lot of drivel has been coming out of San Francisco in recent days about the trading of Willie Mays, up to and including Mayor Joseph Alioto's ridiculous doggerel that "the mighty Stoneham has struck out."

The maudlin eulogies to the figurative passing of Willie fogged the fact that for at least a couple of years Willie has been a pain in the butt to the San Francisco Giants. Bluntly, they could no longer afford him. If you want to applaud Horace Stoneham for his altruism in finding Willie a home, with the New York Mets, where he can live for the next few years in the style to which he has become accustomed, then temper it with the admission Horace had also run down his business to the point where Willie had become a drag.

Let's make one point clear. Willie Mays was a great, great ballplayer—and maybe in a spurt or two, even at the age of 41, he can justify his hefty salary.

A great humanitarian, he isn't.

That's why he wasn't worth keeping around after his active playing days, despite the fact he has been the living symbol of the Giants for 21 years. (For comparison, Stan Musial, who occupied a similar niche in St. Louis, maintained an alliance with the Cardinals which persists and is a senior vice-president of the club, dispensing good will.)

"The only mistake Stoneham made," says a man close to the Giants, "was not trading him three years ago." When Willie was a lot more marketable as a ballplayer — remember, he hasn't hit .300 for half a dozen seasons.

The Giants have been notorious for padding their payroll with old-timers. Cronyism and nostalgic largesse have been the modus agendi for the Stoneham regime. Willie didn't qualify because there was no way to justify $75,000 a year as a gesture of good cheer. Willie in recent years hasn't been spreading any. He's been more sullen and withdrawn than anything else in his personal relations.

The resumed love affair of New York and Willie reminds me of a guy who runs into his old broad many years later and gets a titillating tug of passion, but soon he notices the wrinkles.

The effusive, ebuillient "Say Hey" kid of the 1950s who played stickball and oozed joie de vivre hasn't really been revived. That's a journalistic infatuation. When Willie todays acts like he's "home" and gushes sentimentality, it's an emotional parody because nothing's the same as it used to be. Not New York, not Willie. Only the money is better.

The media people who embraced the kid from Alabama—over the years he was more responsive to the visiting press from New York than he was to his own guys in San Francisco—have changed, too. They're younger and more probing and less rhapsodic. A peevish 41-year-old outfielder won't overwhelm them. When or if Willie turns petulant and complains about being tired or harassed, which was his pattern with the Giants, he'll be criticized.

An impression has been left that Willie was never embraced by San Francisco and therefore had his feelings hurt. Actually, he was in an adulatory climate, and his abilities as a ball player were never minimized. What happened was that Willie passed from adolescence into adulthood without a hitch as a performer but without corresponding growth as a public figure. He had some personal problems which made him more seclusive. He was increasingly sensitive to any critical comments. And he was a tough guy on his managers.

Willie went his own way, which was all right when he was best player of his time.

It's a very unsentimental world we live in.

Sex Discrimination Suit Filed

WICHITA, Kan. (AP) — A landmark Kansas suit seeking to establish the right of a girl to compete for a place on the boys' golf team at Wichita North High School was filed Monday in Sedgwick County District Court.

Plaintiff is Erin Wright, 15, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donnel T. Wright.

Gasper said in a telephone interview that, while similar suits have been filed in other states, this is the first to be filed in Kansas charging discrimination on the basis of sex in high school athletics.

"This is a sort of a friendly suit," Gasper said, "and I'm completely in sympathy with her request. What they are trying to do is to get it out into the open as to what are the rights of the young girl."

Noting that none of Wichita's high schools has a girls' golf team, he said he had requested permission from the Kansas High School Activities Association, which controls high school athletic programs, for Miss Wright to try out for the boys' team.

Gasper said permission was refused.

"They need to provide a place for Erin and her game." Mrs. Wright said her daughter is a serious golfer, has been playing the game since she was 10 and averages 85 for 18 holes.

"We are not trying to have Erin put on the team, Mrs. Wright said, "but she should have the right to try out for it."

The suit, filed by attorney Kay Arvin, alleges the defendants by their refusal to permit Erin to compete in the North golf program "are using public monies and public lands for discriminatory purposes, contrary to law."

Mickey Mantle Out Of Work

Now Mantle says he's not busy anymore and no one will give him what he really wants.

"I don't really have a job," Mantle said Monday, "I'm not doing much of anything. We have real estate, public relations. I go to spring training every year with the Yankees."

Mantle said he would be particularly receptive to a managing offer.

Lewis Pitcher Throws One-Hitter

A one-hitter and some really exciting baseball action was the story in Tuesday night's Little League competition. Farris, Puckett and the Senior High fields were all buzzing with action as three leagues participated in play.

In the National League, Lewis Furniture walked over A & B Leasing, 10-0 in five innings. In the second game, Kiwanis downed Pizza Inn, 14-6. First National Bank slipped past Jenkins in a close contest, 19-18, in the American League. Also in the American League, the Police team demolished Flower Basket, 17-3. It was Kingsway Plaza with 14 to only five runs for Harts Bread in the first game of the night in Musial League action. Nunnelee downed the Bank of Sikeston, 12-5 in the second game.

Francis pitched a one-hitter against the A & B Leasing squad, gaining winning pitcher honors for Lewis Furniture. White took the loss for A & B. Lewis Furniture's Davis connected for the only extra-base hit of the night with a fourth inning double.

Kiwanis sent Mike Dewitt to the mound to collect the victory. Hunt was given the loss for the Pizza Inn squad. Three doubles were part of the night's action, with Dewitt, Butler, and McCaley making the connections.

Both teams rallied with a barrage of hitting in a tense game of the American League, but neither was able to cancel the other out. Finally, First National was able to slip in the one-run advantage that nailed the victory. Jenkins' shortstop, Barborek, slugged a triple in the first inning. Lasiter and Hannah had doubles. Mayfield paced the First National team with four hits, and four runs scored. Longsheet had a double to have the only extra base hit for the Bankers. Bryant collected the mound win. Alsop took the loss.

The Flower Basket was unable to block the onslaught of the Police squad and especially a final inning rally that chalked up seven runs. Ziegler performed mound duties to be credited with the win for his squad, handing Overby the loss. Police was paced by the plate ability of first baseman Gardner with three hits — including a triple — and three runs. Tanner, Grojean, Noel, Overby, and Coetz all collected doubles for their squads.

In the Musial League, Kingsway Plaza made easy prey of the Harts Bread team in four innings of play. Kingsway jumped to a 9-3 first inning lead and held it in the remainder of play. Tim McKenney was the winning moundsman for the Plaza, handing the loss to Danny Smith for Harts.Smith made up for it at the plate with his double that paced the squad. Second baseman Williams and first baseman Leonard collected doubles for Kingsway.

Cortez Smith performed well in leading his team past the Bank of Sikeston, as the young hurler took the win. Ronnie Dodd was handed the loss. Nunnelee rallied in the third for seven runs scored to establish an unyielding lead. Second baseman Ratledge took the spotlight with three runs and three hits, including one double. Bank of Sikeston's third baseman Rodgers slammed a double.

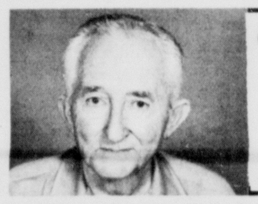
Golf Comments

By Riggs Wesley

SEMO Golf Association Secretary



Ninety- four couples converged on the 328 greens of the Kennett Country Club, as the 3rd Annual Mixed Scotch Tournament got underway, Saturday and Sunday, June third and fourth. The man and woman teams were named to four classes after the 18-hole qualifying round, beginning their conquest of the 36-hole, par 61 course. Procedure followed by the contestants was for selective drive, the remainder of course by alternating shot. Now for the winners .....

In the Championship round, Mr. and Mrs. Les Abernathy of Jonesboro, Ark. returned from last year's victory to again win first with a joint achievement of 151. Mr. and Mrs. Sam Gibbens took second place honors with a score of 153. Third place went to Dr. and Mrs. Joe Zimmerman of Kennett with a 154. Mr. and Mrs. Ronnie Dunlap of Blytheville were tied with the Zimmermans for third with their 154, but the positions were decided by comparing the scores of the first hole on the qualifying round and continuing on in the case of a tie there, placing the Dunlaps fourth. The C. W. Knauts of Piggott, Ark., shot a joint effort of 15 for fifth position, and Mr. and Mrs. Les Huber were sixth with 163.

Mr. and Mrs. Mack Baine of Sikeston jointly shot 160 to pace the A class. A 164 by the Atteberrys was second best. Mr. and Mrs. Cobler were third place winners with their score of 165. The Bartons of Poplar Bluff shot 166 to place fourth. Mr. and Mrs. Jim Collier and the Friedewalds placed fifth and sixth respectively with scores of 166 each, finishing the class A roster.

In B class, Mr. and Mrs. Don Winston of Portageville took first place honors after shooting a low score of 167. A 170 by the Lewis couple was next in the competition. Mr. and Mrs. Wendell Choate from Charleston came in third with their final slate of 171 points. David Cohen and Margo Astrachan, both of Kennett, teamed up to shoot 173 for fourth position. Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Edwards also had a score of 173 to take fifth by the tie- breaking process. Mr. and Mrs. Bob Miller took sixth with 174 points.

Winning first in Class C was Mike Kelly of Kennett and Grace Cottle of Cape Girardeau with 178. The second position was filled by Mr. and Mrs. Dave Andrews of Senath with 183. Mr. and Mrs. T. E. Miles, Mr. and Mrs. Towny Sparks and Mr. and Mrs. Bill Brigance, all of Kennett, with scores of 185 took third, fourth and fifth places respectively. Sixth place was filled by Mr. and Mrs. Lee.

Trophies were presented to first place finishers only, with prizes for all the other winners.

Wissman Hurls No-Hitter

Hart's Bread pitcher Rick Wissman was in complete control of last night's Junior Babe Ruth Opener as he checked the Turner Dairy line- up with a no- hit shutout in the Bakers' 5-0 victory. Wissman kept the opposition spinning as he sent 15 of the 23 batters he faced back to he dugout with strikeouts.

In the nightcap, Davis and Byrd sent runners home in each of the last four innings on the way to the 12-1 win over Home Materials. Deal and Stokes paced the winners at the plate with two safeties apiece.

Wissman's no- hit pitching performance outshadowed his teammates' eight safeties. The Hart's Bread hurler walked only one batter and stranded two batters as the Turner lineup failed to reach second base in the contest.

Hampton, Taylor and Wissman anchored the Hart's Bread battery with two hits each. Jackson went the distance to score for the losers.

In the nightcap, Davis and Byrd scored five big runs in the sixth inning, jumpg into a 10-1 lead over Home Materials. Deal crossed home plate four times for the winners as pitcher Stokes padded his win with a double.

EBB HAIR CONSULTANT IN SIKESTON, MO., FRIDAY
Will Explain Hair Problems Free

Louisville, Ky., June 7, Mr. M. J. Hornick will be back in Sikeston, Mo. again Friday, June 9. Now is the time to act on this great opportunity. Every man and woman now loosing hair should take advantage of this FREE CONSULTATION.

GUARANTEED
You will be given a written guarantee on a pro-rated basis from the beginning to the end.

Naturally we could not give you such a guarantee if it didn't work.

CAN'T HELP
Male pattern baldness is the cause of a great majority of cases of baldness and excessive hair loss, for which no method is effective. Ebb Hair Specialists cannot help those who are slick bald after years of gradual hair loss.

But, if you are not already slick bald, how can you be sure what is actually causing your hair loss? Even if baldness seems to "run in the family," this is certainly no proof of the cause of your hair loss.

Many conditions can cause hair loss. No matter which one is causing your hair loss, if you wait until you are slick Bald and your hair roots are dead you are beyond help. So, if you still have hair on top of your head, and would like to stop hair loss and grow more hair ... now is the time to do something about it before it's too late.

FREE CONSULTATION
Just take a few minutes of your time on Friday, June 9, and go to the Holiday Inn in Sikeston, Mo. between 1 p.m. and 8:30 p.m. and ask the Desk Clerk for M. J. Hornick's room number.

There is no charge or obligation ... all consultations are private, you will not be embarrassed in any way.

Mental Health Director Criticized For Pay Hikes

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — The state Fiscal Affairs Committee grilled Dr. Harold Robb, acting director of the state Division of Mental Health, for more than an hour Tuesday about unauthorized pay hikes for higher paid employes.

The committee, made up of seven state senators and representatives, did not mask their displeasure at the $90,000 plus salary increases from April to June 31 which would cost about $400,000 to continue through the coming fiscal year.

They voted 9 to 2 to call the "violation of legislative intent" to the attention of Gov. Warren E. Hearnes and ask that Robb be directed to go back to the line-item budget passed by the legislature.

In effect, that could mean 938 of the division's 10,000 employes who got raises April 1 would go back to their old salaries. Most were for higher paid workers and professionals.

The committee also agreed to call the state Mental Health Commission to Jefferson City June 27 to let them know how they feel about the raises.

Members took the position that it was the intent of the General Assembly that a statepaid retirement and insurance plan took the place of pay raises for all state workers. The committee chairman said demonstrations last month in Kansas City by mental health workers who did not get pay hikes was "only the beginning of morale problems.

Sen. Donald L. Manford, DKansas City, Senate appropriations chairman and chairman of the Fiscal Affairs Committee, called for the confrontation at the committee's May meeting. He and House appropriations chairman E. J. "Lucky" Cantrell, D-Overland, led the quiz but others voiced their displeasure too.

Robb said the money for the pay increases for the rest of the fiscal year came from funds for the nursing home placement program. He said no money was appropriated to continue the program through the coming fiscal year anyway.

He said the $400,000 for continuing the pay raises would be "up to individual hospital superintendents to find" through delayed recruitment and management.

Cantrell, who made the motion to put the agency back on its approved budget, told Robb, "I am very disappointed with your administration of the division," and stalked out of the room after asking Robb what right he had to drop the nursing home placement program before the end of the year.

Cantrell said Robb was "going to have to cut services some place and we don't agree programs should be curtailed — we don't agree with your priorities."

Manford told Robb it was the legislature's responsibility to run state government, not individual agency heads.

"Somebody has to run state government and that is the legislature's job," Manford said to which Robb asked if he would also take the responsibility.

"We accept the responsibility when we approve the budget and you are to stay within the guidelines of the budget," Manford snapped.

"He shall speak words against the Most High, and shall wear out the saints of the Most High, and shall think to change the times and the law; and they shall be given into his hand for a time, two times, and half a time."—Daniel 7:25.

Britain Says Evidence Indicates Legal Drug System Working Well

"You look awful," a doctor said. Then he handed out a legal narcotics prescription under the tax-subsidized National Health Program.

Once again a junkie had turned up just for another fix that could eventually kill him, rejecting the chance for free withdrawal treatment at a government hospital.

But at least there was no need for him to turn to crimes of violence to raise money for illegal drugs. And with legal narcotics available, there was less profit incentive for gangsters to start mass black market operations here.

He was taking advantage of Britain's system of treating addicts as patients rather than as criminals, a practice once denounced by former U.S. Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell as "the surrender approach."

There's a big question whether the British system coupd work in the United States, but evidence accumulates that it works tolerably well here, following some key revisions.

The number of addicts known to the government is declining. Perhaps more important, it is declining among the younger age groups.

Britain's drug situation pales by comparison to the U.S. problem. At its peak there were probably fewer than 4,000 addicts in this nation of 55 million, avainst perhaps 200,000 in New York City alone.

But the British addiction rate grew alarmingly over the past decade, calling the whole system into question and forcing some major changes.

The system was riddled with abuse. Rogue physicians privately overprescribed for registered addicts, who then sold their surplus to pay the rent or buy food, sometimes hooking a new young junkie.

A new law in 1968 limited the legal prescription of narcotics to government-run clinics. By 1969 the number of known addicts on hard drugs had dropped.

Part of the drop was due to a change in the method of recording addictions. The new system, in effect a census taken on the last day of the year, eliminated from that year's figures those addicts who had died, given up drugs, left the country or for any other reason had been deregistered. Previously these categories were listed as known addicts.

In the early days of the clinic system doctors were known to prescribe drugs for a new addict without even checking his arm for needle marks. An addict could give a urine sample to a "straight" friend, who could then quality for drug prescriptions.

Coffee Corner by Cherie

The statements one can make in a rash moment when looked back upon are just simply too much. I mean I must have been bordering on the edge of a sun stroke or delerium of some kind had surely taken over my senses, for not anytime ago I can remember hearing myself say very plainly how I was ready for school to let out and summer vacation to start. Mad — I must have been mad! Whatever would prompt such a ridiculious sentence to ever leave one's lips if not insanity. Sure, it was a knock down dragout getting the fellas up in the morning, fed, clothed and out the door in time for school, but, then I had all those blessed hours in between to get my work done without any interruption from the younger generation. Now, I roll them out of bed so I can clean around them, still have to get them fed and clothed, but now, there is no peace at all. I think we must have the only house in town with wall to wall bickering. We are also now sporting a taxi driver & cab (me and my car), a restaurant (guess who the short order cook is), a janitor (me - me - me), and we also have a social secretary to keep track of all the engagements and activities that flourish (and I'll bet you can guess whose engagements they are not). We've taken up summer lawn mowing jobs which constitutes me running back and forth for gas, me running back and forth with broken down mowers and me running back and forth trying to get everyone to which lawn they should be that day. Believe me, it would have been just as cheap for me to have paid them to sit home and sure a heck of a lot easier. I am now going to make one more statement and brother this time it's for real, "Boy, will I ever - ever be glad when summer vacation is over and school starts again — whopeeee!!!"

Machines, Electricity Find Little Place In Amish Area

COLUMBIA, Mo. (AP) — The sun and the Amish often rise together and more often than not the sun will set on them at work in their fields, casting stark silhouettes across the freshly plowed rows.

A young man catches a brief moment's rest as he sits behind a plow. He and his horse contemplate digging the last furrow in a row of earth. They began the day together and they will finish it that way.

A farm machinery salesman wouldn't find any customers in an area of Boone County just north of Sturgeon. It is Amish country, where everything is done by man and original or need, where is our cross? Do you think I like freezing in a buggy when I could be in a car? W're not that different."

The Amish children north of Sturgeon attend their own schools through the 8th grade. German, history and religion are taught. Under Amish belief, education ends after the 8th grade because there is no need to continue it.

"Why learn about other people or other things when you have no intention of using them? Hochstetler asked. "We farm here. It's good work — there is no need for more education.

Asked if he fit the Amish image of sternness with children, Hochstetler said Amish youths are punished only when they need it.

"I guess you could say I'm stern. We believe children should be shown the right way. If they stray away from that way later we can't blame ourselves. We tried to show them what was right.

"We lose some to the city and other ways of life," he said. "Occasionally someone will want to come into the faith but they never last. We take them into our church but almost always they break away and leave."

Just then, Hochstetler's 82year-old father-in-law jogged across the backyard and up the stairs into the house.

"He's very spry for his age. He runs a little every day, believing that if you run some every day you'll always be able to run.

Kirkpatrick Elected Veep

Kirkpatrick served last year as treasurer of the association.

If his bid for re-election as Missouri's secretary of state succeeds in November, Kirkpatrick will advance to organization's top post next summer.

Spain Favors Legal Service Access For All

FULTON — Attorney General candidate James Spain of Bloomfield told the Missouri Credit Union League that the objectives of consumerism could not be accomplished until everyone has access to quality legal services.

In a speech given Sunday at William Woods College, Spain said, "Legal fees are of small consequence to the rich, and there are legal aid programs for the poor. But, what about the thousands of Missouri families earning $6,000 to $15,000? Where do they go for help with their legal problems?"

As the system presently operates, middle income families and individuals are denied access to attorneys.

Spain outlined a number of possibilities for meeting the problem including lawyer referral services and federal income tax deductions for legal fees. He concluded that the problem could best be met through some form of voluntary group legal services program whereby individuals and families could prepay for legal assistance. Something analogous to group medical insurance might be devised, he suggested.

Sikeston Provides Support For Club

By CHARLES BRADY

CARUTHERSVILLE- Sometimes it takes a little outside help to get a good thing going and, in the case of the Caruthersville Kiwanis Club, that's exactly what happened.

Members of the Sikeston Kiwanis Club visited Caruthersville in 1938 and 1939 to see if there was any interest locally in the formation of a Kiwanis Club. On Sept. 20, 1939, J.A. Sutterfield, George W. Kirk, and L.M. Standley, all of Sikeston, visited the city again to canvass prospective members for a Kiwanis Club they hoped to organize. This time they found the interest they sought.

Officers for a Caruthersville Kiwanis Club, which was assured for the city when 26 business and professional men had signed a petition for a charter at the end of a meeting Oct. 11, 1939, were elected that evening with Walter Bernard named president.

Other officers elected for that first year were John White, vice president; Jack Moore, secretary; and Bob Mulliniks, treasurer. The board of directors included the officers as well as Bob Mehrle, Tom Markey, Noel Dean, Iverson Michie, Elmer Peal, Ralph Hutchison, and Gifford Edgerton.

The civic organization meets each Monday evening in the basement of the Methodist Church and the club is a member of the Mo-Kan-Ark Kiwanis District.

Current officers are Ralph Clayton, president; Joe Parkinson, president elect; Rev. Reggie Spooner, vice president; Tom Porter, secretary; and Tom Markey, treasurer.

Question Arises On Refuse Vote

CARUTHERSVILLE — The question of whether residents of Caruthersville, Hayti and Steele will be able to vote if a Pemiscot countywide election is called by the county court to establish a Pemiscot County Solid Waste Management District is only one problem that may be worked out this week.

Caruthersville Mayor Bill Inman said the mayors of the three cities and as well as the presiding judge of the county court plan to meet to "work out some bugs" in the proposed refuse-landfill system for the county.

The decision to plan a meeting of these officials was made when the city councils of Caruthersville, Steele, and Hayti met to discuss the proposed landfill system. The only things decided at that particular meeting was that the councils tentatively agreed to underwrite the capital expense to operate the system and D. J. Meredith, presiding judge of the county court, said he would plan to have the county court call for a special election to set up the district.

Meredith said that he wasn't sure whether citizens of the three cities could vote on the proposed distric. Inman echoed this statement saying "the district would be something like a water district setup and operated by the county and I'm not sure if the people in the three cities can vote on its establishment". However, Prosecuting Attorney Art Stephenson, although he said he too was not sure, said "I think anyone in the county can vote'.

Inman was asked four questions concerning the landfill proposal: Will it be less expensive to have the cities to furnish garbage pick-up trucks and crews and just pay for dumping each load at the landfill? Will it be cheaper for the authority which will be set up to operate the landfill? Will it be chaeper for the authority which will be set up to operate the landfill to buy equipment and furnish garbage pick-up service to all three towns for a fee per household? Will it be better for the towns to contract with a private contractor and have him to pick up the garbage and trash?

Inman answered "there is no way of knowing" which way is best but said these questions will be discussed at the meeting this week. He added that "we are working for the setting up of an authority which will operate the landfill to buy equipment and furnish garbage pick-up service to all three towns for a fee per household".

"The thing about a private contractor is if we have one, the people will have to be more disciplined than they are now in how they put their garbage out and we will have to pass some ordinances regarding that," the mayor said.

He said there is also no way of knowing how much each town would have to pay under the four possibilities listed above.

"There's no one here with experience in operating a landfill or its cost and in all the information we have received about it, there is not any two landfill systems that are alike," he comented.

Inman said Caruthersville is now spending around $40,000 on garbage disposal and Hayti around $17,000. He said he did not know what Steel was paying because there is no firm figure.

"I don't know how much more will be needed to operate a landfill system but it would be based on the cost of the system," he said.

He said other questions to be discussed at the meeting this week will be how much each household will pay and how to pay for the equipment to be used to operate the system.

It was discussed last Monday that each city charge $2.25 for garbage disposal but nothing was definitely decided.

Inman mentioned "we've got two to three months to work this out or we're going to be in trouble". According to the Environmental Protection Agency, Pemiscot County must have a suitable and acceptable disposal system in operation by September, 1972.

Arkansas Man Pays $26,000 For Used Car

MUSKOGEE, Okla. (AP) — An Arkansas traveler has paid $26,000 for a used car, and a 16year-old one at that.

Jess Odom's bid on a 1956 Rolls Royce Silver Wraith, once owned by British actor Laurence Harvey, was the highest of James C. Leake's rare auto auction conducted here Sunday. Leake, who owns television stations in Arkansas and Oklahoma, said it was the "top price paid in the U.S.A. for this body style Rolls."

Odom is the owner of Dogpatch, U.S.A. of Arkansas, and lives in Little Rock. He is opening an auto museum at Dogpatch and brought nine cars Sunday for a total of $59,550. He was the top spender.

But Odom said the rare Rolls may not always be in his museum. The car is in perfect condition and Odom intends to show it off.

Leake raised $363,182 from the sale of 74 of his autos in a seven-hour auction conducted by Sotheby, Parke-Bernet, of Los Angeles.

Edward Landrigan II, Ppresident of the firm and the auctioneer, said, "It was the largest most muccessful antique auto auction held in the United States and the largest ever by a single owner."

Leake's auto museum here can accommodate only 70 automobiles and he had 189 before the action. Only three that he placed for sale did not draw bids.

Odom was in earnest about his new auto museum at Dogpatch.

COOKING-UP with judy gazette

The introduction to my newest cookbook promises to keep the reader spellbound with a galley of facts about America's top dessert dessert fare ... PIES!

Well, I was able to put the volume down long enough to eat lunch, but it's sun and informative reading -- "Farm Journal's Complete Pie Cookbook."

Following are several selections, including a pastry recipe accounted for as infallible by my Arkansas Mon.

Oh , yes ... did you know that Greece is the homeland of pastry? And that the first American pies were mostly crust because pioneer women were forced to stretch scarce sweet ingredients ... and for those same corner-cutting reasons, early cooks made pies round!

One more thing ... surveys reveal the seven most popular pies to be in this order: apple, cherry, pumpkin, lemon, chocolate, pecan and coconut.

Cheers, everyone!

1 (8 oz.) pkg. cream cheese, softened
3/4 c. light brown sugar
1/8 tsp. salt
1 tsp. vanilla
2 eggs, separated
1 c. heavy cream, whipped

Melt chocolate over hot (not boiling) water; cool about 10 minutes.

Blend cream cheese, ½ c. sugar, salt and vanilla. Beat in egg yolks, one at a time. Beat in cooled chocolate. Blend well.

Beat egg whites until stiff but not dry. Gradually beat in ¼ c. sugar; beat until stiff and glossy.

Pour into chilled crust, reserving ¼ of mixture for decorating. Chill until filling sets slightly. With tapered spoon, drop reserved mixture in mounds over top of pie. Chill overnight. Makes 8 servings.

CHOCOLATE GRAHAM CRUST: Mix thoroughly 1½ c. graham cracker crumbs, ¼ c. brown sugar, 1/8 tsp. nutmeg, 1/3 c. melted butter or margarine and 1 square unsweetened chocolate, melted. Press into 9" pie pan. Chill until firm.

FRESH RHUBARB PIE

This rosy rhubarb pie has a fascinating, though subtle, orange taste

Pastry for 2-crust pie
1 1/3 c. sugar
1/3 c. sugar
1/3 c. flour
½ tsp. grated orange peel
1/8 tsp. salt
4 c. (½" pieces) rhubarb
2 tblsp. butter

Combine sugar, flour, orange peel and salt. Add to pink rhubarb.

Place in pastry-lined 9" pie pan and dot with butter

Bake in hot oven (425 degrees F.) 40 to 50 minutes, or until juice begins to bubble through vents and crust is golden brown. Partially cool.

Note: If your rhubarb is not the pink variety, add a few drops of red food color to filling. To eliminate peeling rhubarb, use tender, young stalks. The amount of sugar varies with the tartness of the rhubarb — from 1 1/3 c. to 2 c. Usually rhubarb is less tart early in the season.
